April 22, 2026 -

Synergistiq Wellness medical treatments address the increasing demand for personalized, integrative healthcare solutions in Clearwater, Florida. The healthcare and anti-aging service provider has enhanced its capabilities across medical, aesthetic, and wellness services to provide patients with more comprehensive treatment options under one roof.

The expansion comes as more patients seek alternatives to traditional healthcare approaches, particularly in areas of hormone optimization, regenerative medicine, and preventive wellness. The facility now offers an extensive range of advanced treatments, including bioidentical hormone therapy, stem cell treatments, EBOO therapy, and genetic DNA testing, alongside aesthetic procedures and wellness programs.

"The healthcare landscape is evolving rapidly as patients become more informed about integrative medicine options," said Dr. Deepa Verma, Medical Director at Synergistiq Wellness. "Our expanded services allow us to address the root causes of health concerns rather than just treating symptoms. We're seeing remarkable results when patients combine our medical treatments with our aesthetic and wellness programs for a truly comprehensive approach to health optimization."

The medical services portfolio includes specialized treatments for adrenal fatigue, thyroid health, and gut health optimization, utilizing advanced diagnostic tools such as comprehensive lab testing and genetic DNA analysis. These services complement the facility's aesthetic offerings, which range from non-invasive procedures like Hydrafacial and chemical peels to advanced laser treatments, including Excel V+ for vascular conditions and Juliet laser for skin resurfacing.

The wellness division provides supportive therapies, including IV therapy protocols for anti-aging, immune support, and NAD optimization, as well as infrared sweat therapy and pulse electromagnetic field therapy. The facility also offers medical weight loss programs, nutrition counseling, and guidance on plant-based diets and intermittent fasting protocols.

"Patients are recognizing that optimal health requires attention to multiple aspects of wellness," noted Dr. Verma. "By offering everything from hormone replacement therapy to advanced aesthetic treatments and nutritional support, we can create truly personalized treatment plans that address each patient's unique needs and goals."

The expansion reflects broader trends in healthcare toward more personalized and preventive approaches. Recent industry data indicates growing patient interest in integrative medicine, with particular emphasis on treatments that combine conventional medical practices with evidence-based complementary therapies.

Synergistiq Wellness in Clearwater, Florida, has established itself as a comprehensive healthcare destination, specializing in the integration of medical, aesthetic, and wellness services. The facility focuses on creating personalized treatment protocols that address both immediate health concerns and long-term wellness goals. Through its multi-disciplinary approach, the center serves patients seeking everything from bioidentical hormone replacement and regenerative medicine to advanced aesthetic procedures and nutritional optimization programs.
