

Real Clean Announces Enhanced Eco-Friendly Cleaning Service Standards for Healthier Indoor Environments

April 27, 2026

SALT LAKE CITY, UT - April 27, 2026 -
Real Clean, a women-owned cleaning company serving the Wasatch Front, announces enhanced eco-friendly cleaning protocols and expanded non-toxic service options in response to demand for healthier environments across residential and commercial properties.

The Salt Lake City-based company has strengthened its commitment to environmental health by implementing vetting procedures for cleaning professionals and expanding its use of non-toxic, eco-friendly cleaning products. This initiative addresses growing concerns about indoor air quality and chemical exposure in homes and offices throughout Utah.

"The demand for safer, healthier cleaning solutions has accelerated significantly as more people recognize the connection between indoor environments and overall health," said Jazz Bader, spokesperson for Real Clean. "Our enhanced protocols ensure that every cleaning service meets the highest standards for both effectiveness and environmental safety, giving our clients peace of mind about the products and practices used in their spaces."

Real Clean in Salt Lake City, Utah, has developed comprehensive training programs focused on the proper application of eco-friendly cleaning methods and products. The company's vetted professionals undergo extensive background checks and receive ongoing education about the latest developments in green cleaning technology and techniques.

The enhanced service standards apply to all of Real Clean's offerings, including residential cleaning, office cleaning, post-construction cleanup, and move-in/move-out services. Each service utilizes carefully selected non-toxic products that effectively eliminate dirt and bacteria without leaving harmful residues or contributing to poor indoor air quality.

Transparency remains central to the company's approach. Clients receive detailed information about all products used during their service, along with documentation of cleaning protocols followed by the professional team. This open communication helps property owners and managers make informed decisions about maintaining their indoor environments.

The timing of these enhancements aligns with increased awareness about indoor environmental health, particularly in commercial spaces where employees spend significant portions of their day. Office managers and building owners throughout Utah are seeking cleaning partners who can deliver professional results without compromising occupant health.

Real Clean's commitment to eco-friendly practices extends beyond product selection. The company has implemented sustainable business practices, including reduced water usage, proper disposal of cleaning materials, and efficient routing to minimize environmental impact from transportation.

The company currently serves multiple areas across the Wasatch Front, including Salt Lake City, Provo, Lehi, and Bountiful, as well as several surrounding counties. With over eleven years of experience and more than 2,500 clients served, Real Clean maintains a 98 percent satisfaction rate.
