The Forest Grove Crossing development, situated within the Pleasant Valley School District, offers craftsman-style homes featuring luxury vinyl plank flooring, Cambria quartz countertops, and GE stainless steel appliances. The district recently earned recognition as Iowa's top school district according to MSN rankings, adding to the development's appeal for families seeking quality education alongside modern housing.

"The integration of virtual tour technology represents our commitment to meeting evolving buyer preferences in today's market," said Shane Youssi, President of Youssi Custom Homes of Iowa. "Families relocating to the Quad Cities area can now thoroughly evaluate our properties from anywhere, gaining detailed insights into floor plans, finishes, and neighborhood amenities before scheduling in-person visits."

This article highlights how the company's digital platform serves buyers who require comprehensive property information during their home search process. The virtual tours showcase both the 1,313-square-foot two-bedroom condominiums and the 1,565-square-foot three-bedroom units, each featuring nine-foot ceilings, attached two-car garages, and energy-efficient amenities.

The development's location in Bettendorf provides convenient access to the broader Quad Cities region, which encompasses Davenport, Rock Island, and Moline. Properties at Forest Grove Crossing start in the low $200,000 range, offering attainable homeownership options in a sought-after school district.
