All Pro Newton Deck Builders Expands Custom Deck Design Services

May 15, 2026

NEWTON, MA - May 15, 2026 -
Expanded material options and enhanced design consultation now available for 2026 outdoor living projects

All Pro Newton Deck Builders, a residential deck contractor serving the greater Massachusetts area, announced an expansion of its custom deck design and installation services for the 2026 building season. The company has broadened its material portfolio and extended its deck contractor coverage to more than 17 communities across the region. The expansion takes effect immediately, with free in-home design consultations now available for homeowners planning new outdoor projects.

The expanded service offering addresses growing homeowner interest in functional outdoor living space improvements. All Pro Newton Deck Builders now provides six standard material categories for new deck projects, including pressure-treated wood, cedar, redwood, mahogany, composite decking, and PVC. The company has also introduced dedicated design consultation appointments and restructured its project workflow to shorten turnaround times. According to the company, composite decking and PVC have become the most frequently requested materials among homeowners seeking low-maintenance alternatives to traditional wood.

The residential remodelling sector in the northeastern United States has experienced sustained demand for outdoor construction projects over the past three years. Homeowners across Massachusetts have increasingly prioritised deck and porch additions as a means of extending usable living area without the cost of traditional home additions. All Pro Newton Deck Builders cited this trend as the primary driver behind its decision to expand material options and hire additional project staff ahead of the 2026 building season.

"We've seen families fundamentally rethink how they use their backyards, and that shift is driving real demand for decks built around how people actually live," said John Greene, Owner of All Pro Newton Deck Builders. "This expansion means we can offer more material choices and a faster path from concept to completion, so homeowners can start enjoying their outdoor living space sooner rather than later."

The company's partnership with Advanced Builders Co has played a central role in supporting the expanded service capacity. The collaboration allows All Pro Newton Deck Builders to take on a higher volume of custom deck design and installation projects while maintaining its existing quality standards and project timelines. Greene noted that the partnership has enabled the company to assign dedicated project managers to each home improvement project, a step that has reduced scheduling delays across its service territory.

All Pro Newton Deck Builders operates a four-phase process for each project: consultation, custom deck design, installation, and warranty selection. The company serves homeowners in Newton, Brookline, Cambridge, Dover, Natick, Wellesley, Weston, Needham, and more than a dozen additional communities. Each engagement begins with a complimentary in-home estimate that covers layout options, material recommendations, and project pricing. Warranty packages are available on all completed deck installations.

Every project undertaken by All Pro Newton Deck Builders includes a structural review to verify compliance with local building codes and permitting requirements in the municipality where the deck is being constructed. The company handles all permit applications on behalf of the homeowner, a step that Greene described as one of the most common sources of confusion for property owners undertaking outdoor construction for the first time. All completed installations are inspected before final project handoff.
