RCFE Association Announces High-Impact 1-Day Summit for California Senior Care Operators

May 12, 2026

Orange, California - May 12, 2026 -
As regulatory demands and litigation threats reach unprecedented levels, California?s residential care home owners and administrators face an increasingly complex operational landscape. To empower senior care operators with actionable strategies and direct regulatory insights, the RCFE Association has officially announced the 2026 RCFE Association Summit. This intensive, 1-day summit is engineered to deliver high-value learning that keeps administrators compliant, protected, and ahead of the evolving industry curve.

Scheduled for August 21, 2026, the RCFE Association Summit is a must-attend training event for administrators, owner/operators, and senior care professionals across California. Unlike traditional multi-day conferences, the 2026 summit delivers a condensed, high-value experience?eliminating filler and focusing entirely on what matters most: compliance, operational excellence, and sustainable business growth.

Key Summit Features: To help attendees maximize their time and operational investments, the event features a robust agenda structured around immediate, real-world applications:

Direct Agency Access: Live, in-person presentations and Q&A sessions with three major regulatory and oversight bodies.

Live Mock Deposition: An interactive role-play of a high-stakes legal battle, demonstrating hidden operational liabilities.

Continuing Education Units (CEUs): Attendees will earn necessary state-mandated CEUs while gaining practical, business-saving knowledge.

Exclusive Vendor Showcase: Access to trusted industry partners offering innovative operational and compliance solutions.

VIP Networking Reception: An evening of food, entertainment, and collaborative strategy sharing with hundreds of California's top operators.

Unprecedented Regulatory Access and Risk Mitigation - A cornerstone of the 2026 summit is the exclusive presence of three critical government agencies: the California Department of Social Services (CDSS), the Federal Wage and Labor Bureau, and the California Fire Authority. This is the only assisted living compliance summit in the state where attendees will hear directly from all three bodies in a single room, on a single day. Operators will receive real-time updates, clear compliance guidance, and the rare opportunity to engage directly with agency representatives to clarify complex regulations.

Furthermore, the summit introduces an interactive mock trial experience that is set to redefine risk mitigation training. Attendees will witness a live role-play of a legal deposition between an RCFE owner and a prosecuting attorney in a case seeking over $1 million in damages. This behind-the-scenes look reveals exactly how these catastrophic situations unfold, what gets said under oath, and how operators unknowingly put their businesses, licenses, and futures at risk.

Hear Directly from RCFE Leadership: "If you own or operate a six-bed RCFE in California, this is one of the most important events you can attend this year," said William Young, President of the RCFE Association. "We are bringing the California Department of Social Services, the Federal Wage and Labor Bureau, and the California Fire Authority all in one room. This is the kind of insight that can protect your business, your license, and your future. It's more than just an event; it's a day to learn, connect, and elevate your operations alongside the best in the state."
