May 27, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Hybridley, a leading provider of hybrid event solutions, has expanded its platform capabilities to include comprehensive in-person and virtual event registration features, along with badge printing functionality and customizable build-your-own registration processes. The enhanced platform addresses the growing demand for flexible event management tools that can seamlessly support live, virtual, and hybrid formats.

The expanded registration capabilities enable organizations to manage complex event workflows through a single platform, eliminating the need for multiple disconnected systems. Event organizers can now create tailored registration experiences for diverse audiences, including corporate attendees, international registrants, trade show participants, VIPs, speakers, sponsors, and exhibitors. The platform's build-your-own registration process allows event teams to design custom workflows that match their specific requirements and attendee demographics.

"Organizations hosting hybrid events face unique challenges in managing both virtual and in-person attendees effectively," said Nick Snider, spokesperson for Hybridley. "Our enhanced platform provides the flexibility and tools needed to create seamless registration experiences regardless of how attendees choose to participate. The addition of badge printing capabilities and customizable workflows represents our commitment to providing comprehensive solutions that address every aspect of event management."

The platform's badge printing feature supports both on-site and off-site solutions, helping event teams streamline the operational aspects of live event registration. This functionality integrates directly with the registration system, ensuring accurate attendee data and reducing manual processes that can lead to errors or delays during check-in.

Beyond registration, the platform includes integrated email communication tools that enable event teams to manage confirmations, reminders, updates, and audience-specific messaging from the same system. This consolidation helps maintain consistency in attendee communications while providing real-time access to registration data and event changes.

The enhanced capabilities support a wide range of event formats and sizes, from small corporate meetings to large-scale conferences with thousands of participants. Event organizers can create different user groups within the system, ensuring personalized content visibility based on attendees' affiliations or registration types. This granular control extends to both the registration process and the event experience itself.

For organizations new to hybrid event management, the platform offers a 14-day free trial period, allowing teams to explore the features and determine how the system can meet their specific needs. The scalable architecture ensures that the platform can grow with an organization's event requirements, from single-location meetings to nationwide conference series.

Atlanta-based Hybridley has established itself as a trusted partner for Fortune 500 companies and universities seeking reliable hybrid event solutions. The company specializes in combining virtual and in-person event services, offering comprehensive support that includes conference management, corporate event streaming, professional webinar hosting, and interactive virtual platforms. Through its nationwide support network, Hybridley provides both technical expertise and logistical planning assistance to ensure successful event execution.

The introduction of enhanced event registration with Hybridley reflects the company's ongoing commitment to innovation in the hybrid event space, providing organizations with the tools needed to engage audiences effectively regardless of their participation method.
