

Bruce Andrews Seamless Gutters and Roofing Introduces Effective Solution for Roof Valley Water Management with Valley Kicker?

May 19, 2026

BAY CITY, WI - May 19, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bruce Andrews Seamless Gutters and Roofing is highlighting a practical innovation designed to address one of the more persistent challenges in gutter performance?managing heavy water flow from roof valleys. The Valley Kicker?, developed locally in Bay City, Wisconsin, offers a targeted approach to redirecting rainwater in steep valley areas, helping to reduce overflow and improve overall system efficiency for homes and buildings in Minnesota and western Wisconsin.

Roof valleys, where two roof slopes meet, often concentrate significant water volumes during rain events. In the Upper Midwest?s climate, with frequent thunderstorms and seasonal downpours, this concentrated flow can overwhelm standard gutter setups, leading to spillage over the front lip or backups. The Valley Kicker? addresses this by sitting inside a standard 5-inch K-style gutter directly under the valley. Its patented ?catch and curl? design captures and accelerates water toward the nearest downspout before it reaches the bottom of the gutter.

Made from durable, UV-resistant polypropylene, the device is available in white or black and in left- or right-directed models. Installation is straightforward, requiring only basic tools, and it can be used with or without splash guards while remaining compatible with most gutter leaf protection systems. The product's low profile maintains a clean appearance while delivering functional benefits.

Bruce Andrews, owner of Bruce Andrews Seamless Gutters and Roofing, stated, "Valley areas have long presented a specific problem for gutter systems in our region. The Valley Kicker® provides a simple, effective way to manage that concentrated flow, helping prevent common overflow issues that homeowners and property managers encounter."

The company, which serves as the manufacturer and distributor through its Bay City Supplies division, integrates the Valley Kicker® into both new seamless gutter installations and retrofit projects. This complements their full range of services, including custom seamless gutters, LeafLock gutter protection, metal and asphalt roofing, soffit and fascia work, and exterior enhancements.

Customer experiences with related gutter projects frequently mention improved performance after addressing flow and debris concerns. Reviews highlight professional installations that resolve specific issues efficiently, with one noting artistic yet functional results on a garage project and others praising clear communication and reliable outcomes.

Andrews added, "We've seen how addressing these details during installation or upgrades leads to better long-term results for properties across the Twin Cities area and western Wisconsin. It's about practical solutions that fit the way local roofs and weather interact."

Founded in 2000 as a one-man operation from a home shop, Bruce Andrews Seamless Gutters and Roofing relocated to Bay City, Wisconsin, in 2015 following a shop fire. The business has grown while remaining family-owned and guided by principles of faith, integrity, quality, respect, and pride in workmanship. It now serves a wide range of clients, from single-family homeowners and HOAs to multi-unit properties, commercial buildings, property managers, and developers.

In addition to the Valley Kicker®, the company is an authorized dealer for the LeafLock Gutter Protection System, which features a patented hanger and bracket design to help keep gutters clear of leaves and debris. Other offerings include snow and ice management solutions such as heat tape and snow bars, along with assistance for insurance claims and flexible financing options for larger exterior projects.

As summer approaches, with increased rainfall and tree debris common in the region, evaluating gutter performance in valley areas can help property owners avoid potential issues. The company's team conducts assessments to identify opportunities for improvements, whether through targeted additions like the Valley Kicker® or complete system upgrades.

Bruce Andrews Seamless Gutters and Roofing operates from W6418 State Road 35 in Bay City, Wisconsin, and continues to focus on reliable, site-specific exterior solutions. With a satisfaction guarantee backing its work, the company remains committed to supporting property owners in maintaining functional and well-protected homes and buildings.
