All Pro Thornton Deck Builders Expands Service Area to Aurora

June 08, 2026

THORNTON, CO - June 08, 2026 -
Colorado deck contractor now offers custom design, installation, and repair services to Aurora homeowners.

All Pro Thornton Deck Builders, a Colorado deck construction company with more than a decade of experience, announced the expansion of its deck building operations to homeowners in Aurora, Colorado. The Thornton-based firm now offers custom deck design, installation, repair, and restoration across Aurora, the state's third-largest city with a population approaching 390,000 residents.

The expansion positions All Pro Thornton Deck Builders to meet growing demand for outdoor living construction in one of Colorado's fastest-growing communities. Aurora spans more than 155 square miles across three counties, and residential investment in custom deck installation has increased as homeowners look to extend usable living space beyond their interior walls. The company's service offerings in Aurora include wood and composite deck construction, porch design and installation, patio and hardscape work, pool deck building, and shade structure and pergola installation.

"Aurora homeowners face specific challenges when it comes to outdoor construction ? high UV exposure, wide temperature swings, and seasonal hailstorms all affect how a deck needs to be designed and built," said David Miller, Owner of All Pro Thornton Deck Builders. "We bring over ten years of building in Colorado's Front Range climate, and we work with each homeowner individually to match the design to their property, their lifestyle, and their budget."

All Pro Thornton Deck Builders also provides deck repair and restoration services for existing structures that have sustained weather or age-related damage. The company currently serves 14 communities across the northern Denver metropolitan area, including Arvada, Brighton, Broomfield, Commerce City, Denver, Lafayette, Louisville, Northglenn, Superior, Welby, Westminster, and Wheat Ridge. Aurora homeowners can now access the same consultation-to-completion process the firm has delivered across those communities for more than a decade.

Aurora's residential landscape has made the city a natural fit for expanded deck construction services. The city is home to more than 100 parks and open spaces, and many of its neighborhoods feature single-family homes with rear-facing yards that are well suited for deck and patio additions. Homeowners in areas adjacent to the Aurora Reservoir, Cherry Creek State Park, and the city's eastern plains corridor have increasingly sought outdoor structures that complement the surrounding natural environment.

The company's process for each Aurora project begins with a free estimate, during which the team evaluates the property, discusses the homeowner's goals, and provides a written estimate. All Pro Thornton Deck Builders handles every phase of construction from initial framing and structural work through flooring, railing, and finishing. The firm works with both pressure-treated lumber and composite decking materials, allowing homeowners to choose based on durability preferences, maintenance requirements, and budget.

"What sets our work apart is that we treat every deck as a custom project, not a template," said Miller. "Whether a homeowner in Aurora wants a small elevated deck off a second-story entrance or a full wraparound structure with built-in seating, we scope and build it from scratch to fit the property."

According to the 2025 Zonda Cost vs. Value Report, wood deck additions recoup approximately 95 percent of project costs at resale on the national average, while composite deck additions recover roughly 89 percent. Both figures rank deck construction among the highest-return exterior improvements available to homeowners. The data point is particularly relevant in Aurora, where the housing market has remained active and homeowners are investing in property upgrades that serve both functional and long-term financial purposes.
