April 29, 2016 -

Phoenix, Arizona based company, Online Visibility Pros, has announced recently that they have won the Constant Contact All Star Solution Provider Award. This is the third year in a row that the company has won this prestigious award.

Company spokesperson Brian Horwitz says, "We were honored with the first award, but three years in a row really makes us proud. This allows us to showcase our email newsletter management services to a wider audience, and allows us to continue to provide top-notch services to all of our clients."

The Constant Contact newsletter program is one of the company's most popularly chosen, and most effective services to their small business clients. More than 600,000 small business organizations are advised through Constant Contact in marketing, and each year Constant Contact awards the top 10 percent performing solution providers with their All Star award. This year, just like the past two years, the award has been given to Online Visibility Pros. Constant Contact states that the company was chosen due to their exceptional email marketing statistics.

The company's email newsletter management service for small business clients and some of the results they've achieved can be seen at http://onlinevisibilitypros.com/email-profit-system/. They offer an array of business tools that are all designed to help small businesses boost their traffic and leads, which ultimately, boosts their bottom line. Some of the services offered include SEO, PPC, and content marketing, which has become a very popular method for driving organic traffic to websites and allowing smaller businesses to reach out and connect with potential customers on a more intimate level.

"We develop a plan for success that is dependent on specifically what the business wants or needs to achieve," says Horwitz. "Our ultimate goal is for your business to be successful and when it is, our business is successful as well."

Those interested in learning more about the All Star Award can do so on the Constant Contact official website. Small business owners who would like more information on the services provided by Online Visibility Pros can also visit them on their official website for a complete list of what they offer.
