

Good Day Garage Doors Pigeon Forge Expands Service Operations with New Location

May 25, 2026

PIGEON FORGE, TN - May 25, 2026 -
Good Day Garage Doors Pigeon Forge has announced the opening of a new service location at 513 Wears Valley Road in Pigeon Forge, Tennessee, expanding the company's capacity to provide garage door repair, installation, and maintenance services throughout Sevier County and the surrounding East Tennessee region.

The expansion strengthens the family-owned company's presence in the Pigeon Forge area, where demand for professional garage door services has grown alongside residential and commercial development. The new location enables faster response times for emergency repairs and routine maintenance calls while providing enhanced support for both residential homeowners and commercial property managers.

"This expansion represents our commitment to serving the Pigeon Forge community with the same dedication to quality and reliability that has defined our company throughout East Tennessee," said Lior Hasson, owner of Good Day Garage Doors. "The new location allows us to position our service teams more strategically, ensuring we can provide same-day assistance when garage door emergencies arise."

The Pigeon Forge facility offers comprehensive garage door services including spring replacement, opener repair and installation, emergency repairs, and preventive maintenance programs. The location also maintains an inventory of replacement parts, commercial garage doors, and residential door systems to expedite service calls and installations.

Good Day Garage Doors has established itself as a trusted provider of garage door services across East Tennessee, with operations spanning Knox, Blount, Loudon, Anderson, and Sevier Counties. The company's service teams handle common issues such as broken springs, malfunctioning openers, damaged panels, and doors that have come off their tracks. Additionally, they provide scheduled maintenance services designed to identify potential problems before they result in system failures.

The expansion comes as the company continues to see increased demand for both residential and commercial garage door services in the region. Property managers and homeowners throughout Sevier County now have access to professional technicians who can address urgent repair needs as well as planned upgrades and replacements.

"Our goal has always been to provide responsive, professional service that property owners can depend on," added Hasson. "The Pigeon Forge location enhances our ability to deliver on that promise, particularly for customers who need emergency repairs or have time-sensitive commercial service requirements."

The company's service portfolio encompasses garage door repair for stuck, noisy, or damaged doors, emergency response for safety issues, new door installation, full door replacement projects, opener diagnostics and repair, spring replacement services, routine maintenance programs, and specialized commercial door repair.

Good Day Garage Doors maintains its commitment to transparent pricing, clear explanations of repair needs, and professional service delivery. The company's technicians undergo continuous training on the latest garage door systems and safety protocols to ensure quality workmanship on every service call.

As a family-owned business rooted in East Tennessee, Good Day Garage Doors has built its reputation on responsive communication, punctual service, and lasting repair solutions. The Pigeon Forge expansion reinforces the company's position as a leading provider of garage door services in the region while maintaining the personalized approach that has characterized its operations since inception.
