

LawnWorks Lawn Care Launches Comprehensive Mosquito Control Services for Illinois Communities

May 22, 2026

Crest Hill, IL - May 22, 2026 -
LawnWorks Lawn Care, a family-owned lawn care company serving southwestern Illinois since 1988, announces the launch of its summer mosquito control program designed to transform residential and commercial properties into comfortable, bite-free outdoor spaces throughout the warmer months.

The comprehensive LawnWorks mosquito control program addresses the growing concern of mosquito populations in Illinois communities by targeting the complete mosquito life cycle. The treatment approach includes both immediate adulticide applications that eliminate adult mosquitoes on contact and residual barrier treatments that continue suppressing mosquito populations for weeks after application.

"Mosquitoes are more than just a nuisance in Illinois summers - they can prevent families from enjoying their outdoor spaces and pose health concerns," said Josh Cull, owner of LawnWorks Lawn Care. "Our new mosquito control program combines proven treatment methods with our decades of lawn care expertise to deliver effective, long-lasting results that allow our customers to reclaim their yards."

The mosquito control program offers flexible treatment options to meet diverse customer needs. Property owners can choose seasonal suppression programs that provide consistent protection throughout the mosquito season or single application treatments for special outdoor events. The company's technicians are trained to identify and treat both mosquito breeding grounds and resting sites, ensuring comprehensive coverage of the property.

The mosquito control services complement the company's existing lawn care offerings, which include fertilization, weed control, aeration, overseeding, and various pest management solutions. This integrated approach allows LawnWorks to address multiple outdoor concerns through coordinated treatment plans.

The launch comes as Illinois residents prepare for another active mosquito season. Recent mild winters and wet spring conditions in many areas have created ideal breeding environments for mosquitoes, making professional control services increasingly important for property owners seeking to maintain usable outdoor spaces.

LawnWorks lawn care serves numerous communities throughout Illinois, including Aurora, Bolingbrook, Naperville, Joliet, Plainfield, Oswego, and more than 30 other cities and towns in the southwestern suburbs. The company's local ownership and long-standing presence in the region have established it as a trusted provider of professional lawn care services.

The mosquito control treatments are scheduled based on mosquito activity patterns and weather conditions to maximize effectiveness. Technicians assess each property individually to identify problem areas such as standing water sources, dense vegetation, and shaded areas where mosquitoes typically rest during daylight hours.

LawnWorks Lawn Care has built its reputation on personalized service and customized treatment plans since beginning operations in 1988. The company offers various lawn care programs that can be tailored to specific property needs and budgets, with services ranging from basic fertilization and weed control to comprehensive pest management solutions. The addition of specialized mosquito control services represents the company's commitment to evolving its service offerings to meet changing customer needs and environmental challenges in the Illinois region.
