Fusion Vine Founder Brian Kato to Speak at UK SEO Summit 2026

June 02, 2026

Loveland, Colorado - June 02, 2026 -
Fusion Vine founder Brian Kato will speak at the UK SEO Summit 2026, a search marketing conference taking place on August 26, 2026, in Shepperton, United Kingdom. The appearance marks Kato?s first speaking engagement in the United Kingdom and adds the Colorado-based search marketing specialist to a roster of international presenters scheduled to address the conference.

The UK SEO Summit 2026 will be held at a venue on Felix Lane in Shepperton, Surrey, and is organized by Skyrocket Marketers Agency. The single-day conference brings together search engine optimization professionals, digital marketers, and agency leaders for a program of sessions led by practitioners, interactive workshops, and networking. Kato, who founded Fusion Vine and serves as its owner, joins a speaker lineup that includes Craig Campbell, Fili Wiese, Oliver Kenyon of ConversionWise, Anna Moragli of Search Magic, and Michael Melen of SmartSites, among others. The summit draws attendees from across the United Kingdom and other countries.

Based in Loveland, Colorado, Fusion Vine is a digital marketing agency that focuses on search engine optimization, content strategy, and local search for small and mid-sized businesses. Kato has worked in the search marketing field for more than a decade and is an alumnus of the Agency 10x program, which focuses on helping agencies scale their operations. The UK appearance follows a stretch of recent speaking engagements, including the SEO Mastery Summit in Saigon, Vietnam, in March 2026 and SEO Spring Training in Chandler, Arizona, in April and May 2026. He has also presented at past industry events in the United States, including SearchCon and the Agency Fast Track conference, but the UK SEO Summit represents his first time addressing an audience in the United Kingdom. The agency holds Better Business Bureau accreditation and works with clients across a range of industries from its Northern Colorado base. Its services include website audits, keyword research, on-page optimization, link building, and content creation.

?It?s an honor to be a part of this event. There are some big names speaking at this event and I?m honored to stand on the stage with some brilliant minds in marketing,? said Brian Kato, founder of Fusion Vine.

The UK SEO Summit program covers core areas of search marketing, including on-page optimization, technical SEO, off-page authority building, local search, and eCommerce performance. Sessions are structured around practical strategies for keyword research, site architecture, mobile optimization, page speed, backlink development, and content refinement, alongside discussions of how search professionals are responding to ongoing changes in search algorithms and the growing role of artificial intelligence in the field. The event also includes hands-on workshops and peer networking for attendees working across specialist, strategist, developer, marketer, and business decision-making roles. Organizers describe the summit as a venue for practitioners to exchange methods and examine developments shaping organic search, with sessions oriented toward applied technique rather than general overview.

Kato?s contribution will draw on his agency?s approach to combining automation and artificial intelligence with human review across client work. His recent industry talks and interviews have addressed brand signals, local search authority, multimodal content, and reputation management as factors in long-term search performance. He has also discussed the use of workflow tools to manage routine search tasks while keeping strategic decisions under human oversight. The UK SEO Summit is part of a wider series of international search and marketing events organized under related branding, with companion conferences held in the United States, Cyprus, and Asia. Tickets for the Shepperton event are available through the summit organizers in both standard and premium options, and the program is scheduled to run across a full day of sessions.
