All Pro Newton Deck Builders Expands Custom Deck Services to Belmont

June 12, 2026

NEWTON, MA - June 12, 2026 -
The Massachusetts-based deck contractor now offers design, installation, and repair services across more than 17 communities, including Belmont.

All Pro Newton Deck Builders, a Massachusetts-based deck contractor specializing in custom deck design and construction, announced an expansion of its service area to include Belmont and more than 17 communities across the greater Boston region. The company now offers homeowners in those areas access to its full range of deck building services, including custom deck installation, deck repair, porch construction, and outdoor living space improvements.

The expansion comes as residential outdoor renovation demand continues to grow in Middlesex County. According to the National Association of Home Builders, outdoor living projects ranked among the top five most-requested residential upgrades in 2025, with composite and wood deck installations accounting for a significant share of spending. All Pro Newton Deck Builders has positioned itself to meet that demand by extending its design consultation and project management services to communities surrounding its Newton, MA headquarters. The company provides free in-home estimates and works with both wood and composite materials to match homeowners' preferences and budgets.

"We have built our reputation on doing quality work for families in Newton, and we want homeowners in Belmont and neighboring towns to have that same experience," said John Greene, Owner of All Pro Newton Deck Builders. "Every project starts with a conversation about how a family actually uses their outdoor space, and we design from there. That approach does not change regardless of which town we are working in."

All Pro Newton Deck Builders offers six core service categories: deck design and installation, deck repair and restoration, patio and hardscape construction, porch design and installation, shade structures and pergola installation, and pool deck construction. The company has partnered with Advanced Builders Co to deliver projects across its expanded service territory. Each project includes a consultation process in which the contractor assesses the property, discusses material options, and provides a written estimate before work begins.

The company works with both pressure-treated wood and composite decking materials, giving homeowners the ability to choose based on aesthetic preference, maintenance requirements, and budget. Composite deck boards, which are manufactured from a blend of wood fibers and synthetic polymers, have gained traction in the Massachusetts market because they resist moisture damage and do not require annual staining or sealing. Wood remains a popular choice for homeowners who prefer a traditional appearance, and All Pro Newton Deck Builders sources lumber graded for the region's freeze-thaw climate cycles.

Belmont, a town of approximately 27,000 residents located between Cambridge and Waltham, has seen a steady increase in residential renovation activity in recent years. Many of the town's homes date to the early-to-mid twentieth century, and property owners have increasingly looked to add or replace outdoor structures as part of broader home improvement efforts. The deck contractor's expansion into Belmont addresses demand from homeowners who previously had to look beyond their immediate area for specialized outdoor construction services.

"Partnering with All Pro Newton Deck Builders made sense because their project management process is thorough and their craftsmanship holds up," said Gabriel Henrique, Co-Founder of Advanced Builders Co. "They inspect every substructure before decking goes down, and they follow up after the project is complete. That kind of accountability matters when building something a family will use every day."

Beyond new construction, the company also handles structural repairs for aging decks, including board replacement, railing reinforcement, and stair rebuilds. Deck safety has drawn increased attention from Massachusetts municipal inspectors, particularly for elevated structures and those adjacent to pools. All Pro Newton Deck Builders stated that every repair project begins with a full structural assessment to identify not only the immediate issue but also any secondary concerns that could affect the long-term integrity of the outdoor living space.
