

Box Tree Care Maintains Emergency Response Readiness Following Severe Storm Damage in Central Texas

May 27, 2026

LEANDER, TX - May 27, 2026 -
Box Tree Care continues to provide round-the-clock emergency tree services throughout Central Texas following the destructive storms that struck Williamson County on May 19, causing widespread tree damage and power outages affecting nearly 2,000 residents.

The severe weather event, which brought wind gusts reaching 80 miles per hour, left numerous properties with fallen trees, snapped branches, and hazardous limbs requiring immediate professional attention. Box Tree Care emergency services remain available 24 hours a day to address ongoing safety concerns and assist property owners with storm damage cleanup and tree hazard mitigation.

"The May storms demonstrated how quickly severe weather can create dangerous conditions with damaged trees threatening homes and blocking access routes," said Josh Box, owner of Box Tree Care. "Our emergency response teams have the equipment and expertise to safely remove fallen trees and hazardous limbs, helping restore normalcy to affected neighborhoods while preventing further property damage."

The Leander-based tree care company specializes in emergency and hazardous tree removal, storm damage cleanup, and debris removal services. Their certified arborists conduct thorough tree inspections to identify potential hazards before they become emergencies, particularly important as damaged trees may continue to pose risks weeks after initial storm events.

Box Tree Care services Georgetown and Round Rock, along with other communities throughout the Greater Austin region, including Leander, Cedar Park, Austin, Buda, Jonestown, and Brushy Creek. The company maintains a fleet of professional equipment and trained crews capable of handling everything from routine tree trimming to complex emergency removals.

The recent storms highlighted the importance of professional tree care services in maintaining property safety. Damaged trees can fall without warning, potentially causing injury or significant property damage. Professional assessment and removal of compromised trees helps prevent secondary incidents that often occur days or weeks after initial storm damage.

"Property owners often underestimate the ongoing risks from storm-damaged trees," added Box. "A tree that appears stable after a storm may have sustained internal damage or root system compromise that creates hazardous conditions later. Professional evaluation and prompt removal of damaged trees protect both people and property."

The company offers comprehensive tree care services beyond emergency response, including tree trimming and pruning, stump grinding, oak wilt treatment, deep root fertilization, and specialized Chinaberry removal. Their certified arborists provide free consultations to assess tree health and identify potential hazards before they require emergency intervention.

Box Tree Care is a licensed and insured tree care service provider serving the Greater Austin area. Founded by Joshua Box, the company specializes in professional tree care services including tree removal, trimming, stump grinding, lot clearing, and oak wilt treatment. The company maintains 24-hour emergency response capabilities and offers complete cleanup services following all tree work. Their team of experienced arborists provides expert assessments and recommendations to help property owners maintain healthy, safe landscapes throughout Central Texas.
