CCO | Certification Coaching Organization, LLC, based in Oceanville, New Jersey, has announced a new Facility Based Medical Coding Course (FBC). This course is for students seeking the Certified Outpatient Coder (COC?) certification from the AAPC.

Laureen Jandroep, CPC, CPC-I, COC, CMSCS, CHCI, CPPM, founder and CEO of Certification Coaching Organization states, "Our course will teach students the fundamental coding skills needed for an outpatient hospital/facility and ASC setting. It will also prepare them to take AAPC's Certified Outpatient Coder (COC?) exam for a career in Facility Based medical coding."

Jandroep says that the new course will help teach students the core materials and essential tips needed to pass the corresponding Certified Outpatient Coder (COC?) examination.

The new Certified Outpatient Coder (COC?) Exam Prep course is now available according to Jandroep and can be accessed on the company's official website. CCO offers a wide variety of courses, all of which are designed to help coders and medical billers to prepare for certification examination. Jandroep states that the company understands how difficult certification can seem, and that all of their courses are designed to guide students more easily to a successful exam.

"We want our students to feel confident knowing that they are learning precisely what they need to know in order to pass that seemingly difficult examination, gain certification, and make their way into the workforce," Jandroep says.

The company's website offers a look at all of the medical coding online courses that they currently offer, and provides insights into what the courses are designed to teach students, so that they can make an informed decision about which specific courses they require.

Jandroep states that guidance is also available through the site for those who are unsure of which particular course they need. Those interested in learning more about the newly launched course, or any of the courses offered by CCO can visit their official website.

The company states that they also offer a Facebook page for medical coders, where students can interact with others who are currently prepping for certification examination, and connect with the company for updates and further information.
