

Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite Expands Family Law Education Through Florida Podcast Series

June 05, 2026

JACKSONVILLE, FL - June 05, 2026 -
Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite, a Jacksonville-based family law firm, continues to expand its educational outreach through recent episodes of When Split Happens, a podcast dedicated to helping Florida families navigate complex legal matters. The series addresses frequently asked questions about divorce, custody, and co-parenting while providing accessible information about Florida family law procedures.

Recent episodes have explored critical topics affecting Florida families, including the role of guardian ad litem appointments in custody cases, understanding timesharing schedules within Florida parenting plans, and the significance of board certification for family law attorneys. These educational segments reflect the firm's commitment to demystifying legal processes that often overwhelm individuals during challenging family transitions.

"Family law can be overwhelming, especially when people are dealing with emotional stress alongside legal complexities," said Jay Henderlite, Board Certified Marital & Family Law Specialist and managing partner at Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite. "Through our podcast, we're breaking down these topics into understandable segments that help listeners make informed decisions about their legal situations."

The podcast serves as a cornerstone of the firm's broader initiative to publish educational family law resources throughout Florida, with particular emphasis on serving Northeast Florida communities. Each episode addresses practical questions that arise during divorce proceedings, child custody negotiations, and post-divorce modifications, providing listeners with foundational knowledge before they enter legal proceedings.

Guardian ad litem appointments, a topic covered in recent episodes, often confuse parents unfamiliar with custody proceedings. The podcast explains how these court-appointed representatives advocate for children's best interests and what parents can expect during the evaluation process. Similarly, episodes focusing on timesharing schedules help parents understand Florida's approach to shared parenting responsibilities and how courts determine appropriate arrangements.

The significance of board certification in Florida family law represents another educational priority for the podcast. As the only firm in Northeast Florida with three Board Certified Marital & Family Law Experts serving as managing partners, Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite uses the platform to explain why this credential matters for legal representation and how it impacts case outcomes.

Beyond individual episode topics, the podcast maintains a comprehensive approach to family law education, covering divorce and separation procedures, child support calculations, alimony determinations, and strategies for effective co-parenting after divorce. The content targets parents navigating custody disputes, individuals preparing for divorce proceedings, and family members supporting loved ones through separation.

Listeners can access additional podcast episodes and educational resources through the firm's podcast website and media center, where archived episodes and supplementary materials provide ongoing support for Florida families facing legal transitions.

Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite specializes in family and criminal law matters throughout Northeast Florida. The firm handles adoption, alimony, child custody, collaborative divorce, military divorce, prenuptial agreements, and various specialized family law matters. The firm also represents clients in criminal matters including domestic violence cases and DUI defense.
