Austin, Texas - Markus Heitkoetter's amazing story continues with the stellar customer reviews gathered by independent firm Shopper Approved. The premier customer rating and review service collected online feedback from 2,191 customers who purchased products from Heitkoetter's company, Rockwell Trading Services LLC. The result is a staggering five out of five overall satisfaction rating.

Rockwell Trading Services' story began when Markus Heitkoetter relocated from Germany to the USA in 2002 and became a full time day trader. Markus admits he made a lot of mistakes early on. "I wasted a lot of time and money attending webinars, seminars, reading eBooks, and wasting countless hours on the Internet." Eventually, however, Heitkoetter discovered the game changing solution to his problems. With some significant lessons learned, Markus began to enjoy exponential success in his trading efforts.

It did not take long before neighbors and friends were inquiring about his work. Other people were attracted to his success as a trader and he began spending lots of time showing them how to be independent traders themselves. Eventually, Markus decided to write his methods down and with the help of friends and family the informational web phenomena on day trading, Rockwell Trading Services, was born.

Rockwell Trading Services offers resources for beginners and advance day traders. The company website includes helpful books that can be downloaded for free, a variety of reasonably priced courses for purchase, and a members area that is full of practical tips for successful trading. Rockwell Trading operates with one goal in mind: To simplify the complex world of trading and help customers achieve their trading goals.

The recent Shopper Approved survey indicates that customers believe Rockwell Trading is succeeding. Traders like Joe from Alberta, Canada who says, "I have read Markus material in the past and found it to be very useful" and Jamie who enjoys the material that she describes as, "simple and user-friendly." Yet another customer writes, "you stand out above all the others." Rockwell Trading's five out of five overall rating backs up these claims.

This kind of customer satisfaction is the reason Rockwell Trading carries the coveted A+ rating from the Better Business Bureau. The 2,191 traders who gave Rockwell five stars are only a fraction of the nearly one million traders in 213 countries who have benefited from Rockwell Trading's materials. A listing of other awards and honors along with links to all of the Shopper Approved reviews is available on the Rockwell Trading Review page of the company website.
