

Leven Rose Releases New Hydrating Passion Fruit Seed Oil For Skin And Hair

April 25, 2016

April 25, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Leven Rose, a natural beauty company located at the base of the Rocky Mountain Range in Colorado Springs, Colorado, is proud to announce the launch of their new naturally moisturizing product, Passion Fruit Seed Oil. This oil originated in South America and Africa, and was used for centuries as a remedy for various conditions. Today, this oil is used as a naturally hydrating solution for skin and hair.

Courtney Olson, of Leven Rose, says, "Our new Passionfruit Oil is a unique oil and is filled with many beneficial properties. This oil is filled with vitamin A, vitamin C, potassium, calcium, and other rich nutrients. It is a light, non-greasy, easily absorbed oil that helps regulate natural oil production in hair and skin.?"

This new Leven Rose product may reduce the oiliness of skin and scalp without drying it out. Regulating the natural oil production will help aid in reducing acne and clearing blemishes and blackheads. Leven Rose Passion Fruit Seed Oil is not filled with any chemicals or man-made ingredients that could be harsh on hair and skin. Thus, toxins that could cause damage or clog pores even more over time are avoided with this product. Those interested can see more and connect with the company on their official Instagram page at <https://www.instagram.com/LevenRoseBeauty/>.

This antibacterial and anti-inflammatory oil only has one ingredient and is offered in a cold pressed, unrefined state. It is alcohol free, paraben free, and does not contain GMO or added fragrances. No Leven Rose Products are tested on animals, except humans, and they are stored in dark amber glass bottles to ensure the longest shelf life, as organics are damaged by oxidation and light. Leven Rose offers a number of additional oils, all of which are completely natural. These can all be seen on their official website at <https://www.levenrose.com/products/passion-fruit-seed-oil-1-oz>.

"Passion Fruit, or Maracuja, is a great oil for hydrating the skin naturally," says Olson. "It contains many antioxidants and essential fatty acids that helps to repair damage and restore skin to a beautiful, natural state."
