June 05, 2026

CONROE, TX - June 05, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

ADORA, a licensed private security company based in Conroe, Texas, has revealed the deeply personal story that drives its commitment to providing comprehensive security services throughout the region. The company, founded by Jessica and Eddie Hogland, emerged from a family tragedy that transformed their understanding of security's critical importance.

The founders' daughter survived a devastating act of violence as a teenager, demonstrating extraordinary strength and resilience during her recovery. Her story gained national attention and inspired many across the country. In 2021, she tragically passed away, leaving behind a legacy that continues to shape the company's mission and approach to security services.

"Security failures have real, lasting consequences that extend far beyond statistics and incident reports," said Jessica Hogland, CEO of ADORA International Consulting LLC. "Our family's experience gave us a perspective that many in this industry lack. Every site we protect, every client we serve, represents real people whose safety matters profoundly. Read more on our website."

This personal experience has shaped ADORA's comprehensive approach to security services. The company offers armed and unarmed security guards, mobile patrol services, construction site security, event security, HOA and residential patrols, and commercial and industrial security solutions. Each service begins with a thorough risk assessment, analyzing crime data, site layout, traffic patterns, asset value, and liability exposure to develop customized security plans.

The company's mobile patrol units provide rapid intervention capabilities, responding quickly when alarms are triggered to investigate and secure scenes before damage can escalate. For construction sites, ADORA evaluates entry points, lighting, storage areas, and equipment staging alongside local crime data to create comprehensive protection strategies.

Our approach reveals that prevention and visibility remain our top priorities," Hogland explained. "We offer FREE estimates because we believe every business and community deserves access to professional security planning, regardless of their initial budget constraints."

ADORA's event security services focus on proactive measures including strategic planning, visible presence, and rapid response capabilities. Their trained officers effectively guide traffic flows, prevent incidents, and manage crowds while maintaining professional standards. For homeowners' associations and residential communities, patrol officers serve as extensions of community standards while reducing liability concerns.

Commercial and industrial clients benefit from ADORA's access control and visitor management expertise. Officers monitor gates, lobbies, loading docks, and restricted areas to ensure comprehensive premise safety. The company maintains Texas Security License #B26205201 and has built a reputation for professionalism, reliability, and efficiency throughout the Conroe area.

ADORA continues to expand its services throughout Texas, bringing its unique perspective and commitment to communities that cannot afford to take risks with their security needs.
