Preactive IT Solutions Highlights Growing Adoption of Co-Managed IT Services Model

June 09, 2026 -
Preactive IT Solutions, a Houston-based technology provider serving Texas businesses since 2003, reports increased demand for co-managed IT services as organizations seek to strengthen their cybersecurity posture while maintaining operational efficiency. The company notes that businesses across Houston, Austin, and San Antonio are increasingly adopting hybrid IT management models that combine internal resources with external expertise.

The shift toward co-managed IT services reflects broader changes in how Texas businesses approach technology management. Companies that maintain internal IT departments are finding value in supplementing their teams with specialized external support, particularly in areas such as cybersecurity, network infrastructure, and help desk operations. This approach allows organizations to maintain control over their core IT functions while accessing specialized expertise on demand.

"The co-managed model represents a significant evolution in how businesses think about IT support," said Charles Swihart, Founder and CEO of Preactive IT Solutions. "Rather than choosing between fully outsourced or completely internal IT management, companies can now create customized arrangements that leverage the strengths of both approaches. This flexibility has become particularly valuable as cybersecurity threats grow more sophisticated and regulatory compliance requirements become more complex."

Preactive IT Solutions managed IT services encompass a comprehensive range of technology support options designed to integrate seamlessly with existing business operations. The company's co-managed services can supplement internal IT teams in various capacities, from providing vacation coverage to assisting with specialized projects and enhancing cybersecurity capabilities. This flexible approach allows businesses to scale their IT support based on current needs without the overhead of expanding their full-time staff.

The increased adoption of co-managed services aligns with recent industry data showing that businesses face growing challenges in recruiting and retaining qualified IT professionals. By partnering with external providers, companies can access experienced technology professionals who work with multiple organizations and bring diverse perspectives to problem-solving. This arrangement proves particularly beneficial for small to medium-sized businesses that may not require full-time specialists in every technology area.

Network security remains a primary driver for businesses seeking co-managed IT partnerships. As cyber threats continue to evolve, many organizations recognize the need for specialized security expertise that may be difficult to maintain internally. Co-managed services allow companies to implement enterprise-level security measures while maintaining their existing IT structure and relationships.

Beyond security considerations, the co-managed model supports business continuity and operational resilience. When internal IT staff members are unavailable due to vacation, illness, or other circumstances, external partners can ensure uninterrupted technology support. This redundancy has become increasingly important as businesses rely more heavily on technology for daily operations.

Preactive IT Solutions serves commercial clients throughout the Houston, Austin, and San Antonio markets with a full spectrum of technology services, including managed IT services, IT consulting, VoIP communications, network security, and co-managed IT support. Established in 2003, the company combines decades of experience serving Texas businesses with tailored technology solutions designed to increase productivity, reduce downtime, and support organizational growth. The company's services can be customized to meet the specific requirements of businesses ranging from small local firms to large regional organizations.
