Green Street HVAC Announces Expanded Preventative Maintenance Programs for HVAC Systems Throughout Middle Tennessee

June 11, 2026

SPRINGFIELD, TN - June 11, 2026 -
Green Street HVAC, a veteran-owned heating, ventilation and air conditioning company serving Middle Tennessee, announced today the expansion of its preventative maintenance programs to help property owners avoid costly system failures and maintain optimal indoor air quality throughout the year.

The Springfield-based company has enhanced its maintenance offerings in response to increasing demand for professional HVAC Maintenance services as Tennessee residents prepare for extreme seasonal temperature variations. The expanded program includes comprehensive system inspections, component cleaning, and preventative repairs designed to extend equipment lifespan and improve energy efficiency.

"Regular maintenance is the single most important factor in preventing unexpected HVAC failures and maintaining safe indoor environments," said a spokesperson for Green Street HVAC. "Our expanded maintenance programs address critical safety concerns including carbon monoxide leak prevention, electrical hazard mitigation, and air quality improvement while helping property owners reduce their utility costs."

The company's maintenance services encompass residential and commercial properties throughout Middle Tennessee, with technicians trained to service all makes and models of heating and cooling equipment. The preventative maintenance program includes inspection of electrical connections, lubrication of moving parts, cleaning of condensate drains, and verification of proper airflow through ductwork systems.

Recent industry data indicates that properly maintained HVAC equipment can operate up to 40 percent more efficiently than neglected systems, translating to significant cost savings for property owners. Additionally, regular maintenance can extend equipment lifespan by five to ten years, preventing premature replacement costs that often exceed several thousand dollars.

Green Street HVAC Services in Springfield offers comprehensive solutions including AC installation and repair, heat pump services, furnace repair and installation, smart home product integration, thermostat services, dryer vent cleaning, duct cleaning, Aeroseal ductwork sealing, and commercial HVAC services. The company's Comfort Club membership program provides priority service and special discounts for regular maintenance customers.

The expansion comes as Middle Tennessee experiences increasingly variable weather patterns that place additional strain on heating and cooling systems. Proper maintenance becomes particularly critical during seasonal transitions when systems switch between heating and cooling modes, potentially revealing issues that could lead to complete system failure during peak demand periods.

Air quality concerns have also driven increased interest in professional maintenance services. HVAC systems that operate without regular cleaning and inspection can harbor mold, bacteria, and other contaminants that circulate throughout indoor spaces. The humid Tennessee climate creates conditions particularly conducive to moisture buildup within HVAC systems, potentially leading to mold growth and electrical component damage.
