

Get Em Out Wildlife Control Earns Top Choice Award for Third Consecutive Time Recognizing Humane Wildlife Removal Services Across Ottawa

June 15, 2026

OTTAWA, ON - June 15, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Get Em Out Wildlife Control has received the Top Choice Award for the third time in recognition of its humane wildlife removal services across Ottawa, extending a run of third-party recognition that reflects consistent performance in a sector where service quality and animal-handling practices vary significantly among operators. The award is determined through independent consumer research and identifies businesses that rank highest in their category within a given market.

The Top Choice Award program evaluates service businesses through consumer surveys conducted independently of the companies being assessed. Recipients are identified based on the feedback of actual clients rather than through self-nomination or fee-based participation, a methodology that distinguishes the designation from industry association memberships or business directory listings. Receiving the award three times indicates that Get Em Out has maintained the service standard necessary to rank at the top of consumer assessments across multiple evaluation cycles.

Wildlife removal is a service category where the gap between operators is wide, ranging from contractors who use lethal control methods and impermanent exclusion techniques to certified practitioners who apply integrated pest management principles, humane capture and relocation practices, and long-term exclusion solutions that prevent recurrence. For Ottawa homeowners dealing with wildlife intrusions, the distinction between those approaches has practical consequences for both the immediate situation and the likelihood of repeated intrusions in subsequent seasons.

“Earning this recognition three times means that clients are consistently reporting that the service met what we said it would,” said Sean Robertson, Owner of Get Em Out Wildlife Control. “Wildlife removal is a stressful situation for most homeowners, and the way it gets handled matters as much as the outcome. Humane practices are not just an ethical consideration – they produce better long-term results because the focus is on permanent exclusion rather than just removing the animal that’s currently visible.”

Get Em Out Wildlife Control is a recognized Ottawa exterminator serving residential and commercial clients throughout Ottawa and surrounding communities. The company’s service model emphasizes identifying entry points and implementing permanent exclusion as the foundation of effective wildlife control, addressing the structural vulnerabilities that allow wildlife to access a property rather than focusing exclusively on the removal of individual animals. That approach reduces the recurrence rate characteristic of reactive removal-only interventions.

The company also provides wildlife removal services in Ottawa for a full range of species commonly encountered in the Ottawa region, including raccoons, squirrels, skunks, bats, birds, and mice. Each species presents distinct behavioural patterns, entry preferences, and removal considerations, and effective management requires species-specific knowledge rather than a generalized trapping approach. Get Em Out’s team applies that species-specific expertise across residential attic intrusions, crawl space infestations, and commercial property wildlife management programs.

The company’s service area includes Orleans and surrounding east Ottawa communities, where suburban development adjacent to green spaces and the Ottawa River corridor creates conditions that support sustained wildlife activity near residential properties. As a recognized Pest Control Exterminator in Orleans, Get Em Out provides residents with access to the same humane exclusion practices and permanent solutions available throughout the broader Ottawa service area, addressing the wildlife pressures that come with proximity to natural corridors.
