

The Allen Thomas Group Announces Specialized Insurance Solutions for Electrical Contractors

June 12, 2026

Akron, Ohio - June 12, 2026 -
The Allen Thomas Group, an independent insurance agency based in Akron, Ohio, announces comprehensive insurance solutions specifically designed for electrical contractors, addressing the unique risks and coverage requirements of the electrical trade for both residential and commercial applications.

The agency which is licensed in over 27 states has developed specialized expertise in serving electrical contractors, offering tailored insurance programs that address the distinct challenges faced by electricians. With electrical work consistently ranking among the most hazardous trades, contractors require comprehensive coverage that goes beyond standard business insurance policies.

The agency provides essential coverage options, including Workers Compensation Insurance for Electricians, general liability insurance, commercial auto coverage, and professional liability protection. Each policy component addresses specific exposures common in electrical work, from employee injuries to property damage claims.

"Electrical contractors face a unique combination of risks, from arc flash incidents and falls to potential liability claims from completed work," said Joe Race, CEO of The Allen Thomas Group. "Our deep understanding of the electrical trade allows us to structure insurance programs that provide proper protection while managing costs effectively."

The Allen Thomas Group works with more than 15 A-rated insurance carriers to provide competitive pricing for electrical contractors. Most electrical contractors pay between $1,200 and $3,000 annually for basic coverage including general liability and tools insurance. When adding workers' compensation, commercial auto, and professional liability, contractors with employees performing commercial work typically invest $10,000 to $35,000 per year for comprehensive protection.

A critical component of comprehensive electrical contractor insurance is Completed Operations Coverage, which protects contractors from liability claims that arise after a project has been finished and handed over to the client. This coverage remains essential as electrical work can potentially lead to fires, equipment damage, or injuries long after the contractor has left the job site.

The agency assists electrical contractors in obtaining Certificates of Insurance, which general contractors and property managers require before allowing electricians on job sites. The Allen Thomas Group can issue these certificates the same day coverage is placed, ensuring contractors can begin work without delays.

Factors affecting insurance costs for electrical contractors include annual revenue and payroll, types of projects undertaken, claims history, coverage limits selected, and specific policy endorsements. The agency helps contractors understand these cost drivers and identifies opportunities to reduce premiums without sacrificing essential coverage.

The Allen Thomas Group serves various industries throughout the country, including specialities with construction and contractors, nonprofits, manufacturing, professional services and the tech sector. The independent agency specializes in matching businesses with appropriate insurance carriers and coverage options based on their specific operational needs and risk profiles, thus making getting insurance fast and easy.
