DULUTH, MN - June 11, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bullyan RV Center reports that 2026 Keystone fifth wheels with side patios are part of its current new inventory as the peak summer camping season approaches in Minnesota. These configurations integrate an additional outdoor living space into select fifth wheel floorplans, reflecting broader industry developments in towable RV designs for 2026.

Bullyan RV Center, a family-owned dealership in Duluth that has served the Northland region since 1954, stocks various new Keystone RV products. One model available in the dealership inventory is the 2026 Keystone Cougar Half-Ton 30REP, which features a side patio design. The fifth wheel measures approximately 35 feet in length, has a dry weight of around 9,705 pounds, sleeps up to four people, and includes one slide-out with a rear living area configuration.

Marketing Manager Charlie Bedor commented, "Side Patios as well as Rear Patios are popular because they blend entertainment space to be able to relax outdoors while still being off the ground and have amenities like a TV, mini fridge, awning, and more right off the main living area of your camper. This maximizes square footage space for campsites as well as campers."

The side patio in the 30REP is accessible through a patio door from the main living area. This arrangement allows for outdoor setups that incorporate elements such as an awning and space for additional features. The model further includes a front bedroom with a king bed, a full bathroom equipped with a 30-inch by 36-inch shower, and a kitchen with an L-shaped counter, bar-top seating, stove, 12-volt refrigerator, microwave, and coffee station. Living area components consist of a tri-fold sofa sleeper, fireplace, and pantry storage.

Construction aspects of the Cougar Half-Ton series incorporate HyperCore composite walls, Climate Guard protection package, and HyperDeck flooring. These elements support use in different environmental conditions. Interior details include residential shaker-style hardwood cabinetry, blackout roller shades, in-floor heating ducts, dimmable lighting, night roller shades, and bedside USB outlets. The unit also has a fresh water capacity of 54 gallons, gray and black water tanks, 50-amp electrical service, a Winegard Air 360+ antenna, and PEX plumbing.

In the context of 2026 RV offerings, side patio designs appear across multiple Keystone lines and other manufacturers, providing alternatives to traditional layouts or toy hauler configurations. The Cougar Half-Ton 30REP, for instance, maintains a half-ton towable profile while adding the patio feature, distinguishing it from heavier or differently structured models in the broader fifth wheel market. This approach addresses camper interest in versatile spaces that connect indoor and outdoor areas without significantly altering campsite requirements.

The 2026 Cougar Half-Ton 30REP is listed as a standard inventory item at Bullyan RV Center with a sale price of $66,475. Availability corresponds to current stock levels rather than a limited-time promotion. The dealership operates from a 48,500-square-foot facility that includes 24 service bays for maintenance and repairs. It provides sales, parts, and service for new and used RVs. Team members assist with evaluating floorplans, specifications, and suitability for various travel needs, including length, weight, and layout preferences based on customer requirements.

Minnesota campers often utilize state parks and lake regions during the summer months, where fifth wheel models with expanded living options can support different group sizes and activity levels. The side patio feature in models such as the 30REP represents one response by manufacturers to preferences for multi-functional designs that extend usable area. Comparisons within the Cougar lineup and similar Keystone offerings highlight how these configurations fit alongside bunkhouse or standard rear living options, allowing for selection based on specific priorities.

Bullyan RV Center continues to maintain inventory across multiple Keystone series, including the Cougar Half-Ton models. The dealership's history in the Northland area supports its position as a local point for reviewing 2026 RV developments. Staff draws on experience to discuss how features perform in regional camping conditions, from seasonal weather variations to campground constraints.

Additional considerations for potential buyers include the balance of interior amenities with exterior additions. In the 30REP, the patio integrates with the rear living layout, providing direct access while preserving interior flow. This setup, combined with standard fifth wheel elements like storage solutions and climate management systems, contributes to overall functionality. Industry observations indicate that such patio-inclusive designs have gained attention in recent model years for enhancing campsite experiences across various RV segments.

As the camping calendar advances, Bullyan RV Center notes steady engagement with 2026 fifth wheel inventory. The presence of Keystone side patio options aligns with patterns in customer inquiries regarding space-efficient towables. Individuals planning outings can examine units at the Duluth location to assess fit for their intended use, whether short trips or longer stays.

Bullyan RV Center remains focused on supporting regional RV enthusiasts through its selection of products and associated services. The dealership's operations encompass guidance on current market offerings, including models that incorporate evolving design elements like integrated patios in fifth wheels.
