

Belmont Plastic Surgery Highlights Advanced Breast Augmentation Techniques for Personalized Patient Outcomes

June 16, 2026

CHEVY CHASE, MD - June 16, 2026 -
Belmont Plastic Surgery, a leading Washington, D.C.-based plastic surgery clinic, is highlighting advancements in breast augmentation techniques that prioritize personalized patient outcomes and natural-looking results. The clinic's approach emphasizes comprehensive consultation processes and customized surgical planning to address each patient's unique aesthetic goals.

The practice, led by award-winning board-certified plastic surgeon Dr. Jules Feledy, has refined its breast augmentation protocols to incorporate the latest surgical techniques and implant technologies. These advancements allow surgeons to better match procedures to individual patient anatomy, lifestyle considerations, and desired outcomes.

"The field of breast augmentation has evolved significantly over the past decade, with innovations in both surgical techniques and implant options," said Dr. Eric Maiorino, a plastic surgeon at the clinic. "Today's approach goes far beyond simply increasing breast size. We focus on achieving harmonious proportions, natural movement, and results that complement each patient's unique body type and personal preferences."

The clinic's comprehensive approach to breast augmentation includes detailed pre-operative planning using advanced imaging technology, discussion of various implant types and placement options, and consideration of factors such as patient activity level and long-term aesthetic goals. This personalized methodology has become increasingly important as patients seek more individualized results rather than one-size-fits-all solutions.

Belmont Plastic Surgery - Chevy Chase breast augmentation procedures now incorporate enhanced techniques for minimizing scarring, reducing recovery time, and achieving more predictable outcomes. The practice offers multiple surgical approaches, including traditional breast augmentation, augmentation with fat transfer, and combination procedures that address both volume and positioning concerns.

The emphasis on personalization extends beyond the surgical procedure itself. The clinic provides comprehensive patient education about implant options, including saline, silicone, and structured implants, as well as discussions about implant placement above or below the chest muscle. This educational approach ensures patients make informed decisions aligned with their aesthetic goals and lifestyle requirements.

"Patient education and collaborative planning are fundamental to achieving optimal results," noted Dr. Maiorino. "We spend considerable time during consultations discussing not just immediate outcomes, but also long-term considerations such as implant longevity, potential future procedures, and how results may change over time."

The clinic's commitment to personalized care includes offering various complementary procedures that can be combined with breast augmentation, such as breast lift procedures for patients seeking both enhanced volume and improved positioning. This comprehensive approach allows for addressing multiple aesthetic concerns in a coordinated treatment plan.

Belmont Plastic Surgery serves the greater Washington DC metropolitan area from its Chevy Chase location. The practice offers a full spectrum of surgical and non-surgical cosmetic procedures for the face, body, and breasts. In addition to breast procedures, the clinic provides facial rejuvenation surgeries, body contouring procedures, and an extensive menu of non-invasive treatments, including injectables, laser therapies, and advanced skin care services. The practice maintains a strong focus on delivering natural-looking results through a collaborative approach to patient care.
