

Bay Clinic of Chiropractic Expands Natural Treatment Options as Panama City Residents Seek Drug-Free Solutions for Chronic Conditions

June 19, 2026

Panama City, FL - June 19, 2026 -
Bay Clinic of Chiropractic has expanded its comprehensive treatment protocols to address the growing number of Panama City residents seeking alternatives to long-term medication for chronic pain and neurological conditions. The clinic, led by Dr. Tony Salamay (Antoine Salameh DC), has integrated advanced functional neurology and applied kinesiology techniques with advanced chiropractic adjustments to create personalized brain-body treatment plans.

The expansion comes as healthcare trends show increasing patient interest in addressing root causes of chronic conditions rather than managing symptoms through medication alone. The clinic now offers an integrated approach combining functional medicine, clinical nutrition, PEMF therapy, and targeted techniques, including Sacro Occipital Technique and upper cervical care.

"Patients are discovering that many chronic conditions stem from nervous system imbalances that medication simply masks rather than resolves," said Dr. Tony Salamay, functional medicine chiropractor at Bay Clinic of Chiropractic. "By addressing the brain-body connection through precise adjustments and functional neurology, we help restore the nervous system's natural ability to heal, often eliminating the need for ongoing pharmaceutical intervention."

The comprehensive approach begins with detailed evaluations that assess not just spinal alignment but also neurological function, nutritional status, and overall physiological balance. This allows the clinic to develop treatment plans that address multiple aspects of health simultaneously, from immune and endocrine function to posture and pain management.

Patients ranging from infants to seniors have experienced improvements in conditions advanced managed through medication, including chronic headaches, digestive issues, sleep disorders, and persistent pain. The clinic utilizes various adjustment techniques, from gentle instrument adjusting for sensitive patients to manual full spine techniques, ensuring appropriate care for each individual's needs and comfort level.

The integration of functional medicine principles with chiropractic care in Panama City represents a shift in how chronic health conditions are approached. Rather than treating symptoms in isolation, the clinic examines how different body systems interact and influence overall health outcomes.

"The demand for natural, sustainable healthcare solutions continues to grow as people recognize the limitations and side effects of long-term medication use," added Dr. Tony Salamay. "Our expanded protocols allow us to address complex health challenges through precise, personalized care that supports the body's inherent healing capabilities."

As a family chiropractor at Bay Clinic of Chiropractic, Dr. Tony Salamay has extensive training in multiple chiropractic techniques and complementary therapies. The clinic serves the Panama City community with a focus on long-term health optimization rather than temporary symptom relief.

The clinic's treatment philosophy emphasizes precision care and whole-person wellness, with ongoing support provided through wellness plans tailored to each patient's specific health goals and challenges. This approach has proven particularly effective for families seeking comprehensive care that addresses health concerns across different age groups.

Bay Clinic of Chiropractic has been providing chiropractic care in Panama City, Florida, for years, offering a range of services from prenatal care to senior wellness programs. The clinic combines advanced chiropractic principles with modern functional medicine approaches to deliver comprehensive healthcare solutions.
