June 26, 2026

WOODSTOCK, GA - June 26, 2026 -
Towne Plumber, a family-owned plumbing company based in Woodstock, Georgia, has expanded its specialized leak detection services to serve a broader range of communities across North Georgia. The company now provides advanced water leak detection to residents and businesses throughout Woodstock, Alpharetta, Roswell, Johns Creek, Milton, Sandy Springs, Dunwoody, Brookhaven, Emerson, Smyrna, Kennesaw, Acworth, Cartersville, Canton, Ballground, and Marietta.

The expansion addresses growing demand for professional leak detection services as property owners increasingly recognize the importance of early leak identification to prevent costly water damage and reduce utility expenses. Using state-of-the-art thermal imaging technology and acoustic equipment, leak detection by Towne Plumber provide non-invasive solutions that identify hidden water leaks before they cause structural damage or mold growth.

"Water leaks can go undetected for months, causing thousands of dollars in damage and wasting precious water resources," said Shane Mahaffey, owner of Towne Plumber. "Our advanced detection equipment allows us to pinpoint leaks behind walls, under foundations, and in other hard-to-reach areas without the need for destructive exploration. This technology saves our customers time, money, and the hassle of unnecessary property damage."

The company's leak detection process combines multiple diagnostic techniques, including visual inspections, high-sensitivity water-leak detectors, non-invasive thermal imaging, and pressure testing. These methods enable technicians to locate leaks in water lines, pipes, and plumbing systems throughout residential and commercial properties. Once identified, the company's licensed plumbers can immediately address repairs, providing comprehensive solutions from detection through resolution.

Towne Plumber Woodstock, GA has built its reputation on fast, reliable service since establishing operations in Cherokee County. The licensed and insured company maintains a 4.9 Google rating, reflecting consistent customer satisfaction across its range of plumbing services. Beyond leak detection, the company provides water heater installation and repair, drain and sewer services, water line replacement, and emergency plumbing response.

The expanded service area represents a strategic response to increasing requests from property owners outside the company's traditional service zone. The company's investment in advanced detection technology positions it to serve these communities with the same level of professional service that has earned recognition in Woodstock and surrounding areas.

The company specializes in both traditional and tankless water heater systems, bathroom and kitchen plumbing renovations, and comprehensive maintenance plans for whole-house plumbing systems.
