

White Oak Landscape Expands Irrigation Services for Atlanta Businesses and Residences

July 03, 2026

MARIETTA, GA - July 03, 2026 -
White Oak Landscape has expanded its irrigation services to serve both commercial and residential properties throughout the Atlanta, Georgia metropolitan area, addressing the growing demand for professional water management solutions in the region.

The expansion enables the company to provide comprehensive irrigation system design, installation, and maintenance services to a broader client base, from large commercial properties to private residences. This strategic growth positions White Oak Landscape as a full-service irrigation provider capable of handling projects of varying scales and complexities.

"The expansion of our irrigation services reflects our commitment to meeting the diverse needs of Atlanta property owners," said Rocky DeVotie, President of White Oak Landscape. "Both commercial and residential clients require reliable water management systems that maintain healthy landscapes while optimizing water usage, and we have developed the expertise and resources to deliver these solutions effectively."

The Atlanta region's climate presents unique challenges for property owners seeking to maintain vibrant, healthy landscapes throughout the year. Extended periods of heat and variable rainfall patterns make professional irrigation systems essential for preserving plant health and property aesthetics. White Oak Landscape's expanded services address these challenges through customized irrigation solutions tailored to each property's specific requirements.

Commercial properties benefit from landscape irrigation by White Oak through systems designed to handle larger areas while maintaining operational efficiency. These installations incorporate advanced scheduling technology and zone-specific controls that ensure optimal water distribution across expansive grounds. The company's commercial services encompass office complexes, retail centers, industrial facilities, and institutional properties throughout the Atlanta area.

Residential clients now have access to the same professional-grade irrigation expertise previously available primarily to commercial customers. Home irrigation systems installed by the company feature precision sprinkler placement, drip irrigation options for garden beds, and smart controller technology that adjusts watering schedules based on weather conditions and seasonal requirements.

The expansion also introduces specialized irrigation for business by White Oak, focusing on maintaining professional appearances while managing water costs. These systems incorporate water-saving technologies such as moisture sensors, rain shut-off devices, and high-efficiency nozzles that reduce water consumption without compromising landscape quality.

"Property owners increasingly recognize that professional irrigation represents an investment in their property's long-term value," added DeVotie. "Properly designed and maintained irrigation systems protect landscape investments, reduce water waste, and eliminate the time burden of manual watering."

White Oak Landscape brings extensive experience in landscape design and maintenance to its expanded irrigation services. The company's technicians receive ongoing training in the latest irrigation technologies and water conservation practices, ensuring clients receive systems that incorporate current industry best practices.

The company's service area encompasses the entire Atlanta metropolitan region, including surrounding counties. Installation services are complemented by comprehensive maintenance programs that include seasonal adjustments, system inspections, and prompt repair services to ensure continuous optimal performance.

White Oak Landscape specializes in creating and maintaining exceptional outdoor environments for commercial and residential properties. The company provides comprehensive landscape services including design, installation, irrigation, and ongoing maintenance throughout the Atlanta metropolitan area.
