

Denver Fence Guys Marks More Than 17 Years in Business

June 25, 2026

COMMERCE CITY, CO - June 25, 2026 -

Denver Fence Guys, a family-owned residential and commercial fence and gate contractor based in Commerce City, Colorado, has marked more than 17 years in business and continues to operate from two locations serving the greater Denver metropolitan area. Founded in 2007 by owner Barrett Pribyl, the company has grown from a single owner-built fence into a full-service fence and gate contractor that backs every installation with a 10-year workmanship warranty and a 15-year warranty on wood posts.

The milestone reflects steady, organic growth for a business that began when Pribyl, a former mortgage broker, built a fence at his own home and discovered a preference for working with his hands and being outdoors. He continued building fences with friends, and demand grew until the work became a full-time company. Pribyl never set out to build a large operation, but it expanded naturally as he focused on keeping his crews employed. The business later added co-owner Shane Gwin, who holds a degree in Construction Management and brings field-level technical knowledge to project assessments and installations.

"The company started with one fence built by hand, and that same hands-on approach still guides every project," said Barrett Pribyl, owner of Denver Fence Guys. "Staying personally involved from the first estimate through the final walkthrough has remained the priority as the business has grown."

Operating from offices in Commerce City and Wheat Ridge, the company serves homeowners, homeowners associations, and businesses, assigning a dedicated project manager to guide each job through planning, scheduling, and a final walkthrough. That approach contributed to the company earning the Mile High Award in 2023 and supports its membership in the American Fence Association. The company describes its long-term aim as being an asset to the community while providing a customer experience built on responsiveness and quality work.

Denver Fence Guys installs a full range of residential and commercial fencing, including cedar wood, vinyl, composite, ornamental iron, chain link, and precast concrete. The company also installs Copper Wood fencing, a naturally rot- and insect-resistant wood species sourced from Layton's Ozark Timber, for property owners seeking durability with reduced upkeep. Fence styles include privacy, security, agricultural, pool, and decorative configurations. Each project begins with a site assessment, and the company manages permit acquisition, site preparation, and excavation in-house.

Gate systems form a central part of the company's work. Denver Fence Guys designs and installs swing, slide, cantilever, pedestrian, decorative, vertical pivot, barrier arm, rolling, chain link, and wire mesh gates for residential and commercial properties, handling fabrication, automation, and safety feature installation internally. Access control options include keypad entry, card readers, and remote control systems, with installed operator brands that include LiftMaster, DoorKing, and Maximum Controls.

"Gates and access control have become a significant part of the business, and the technical side is where a construction-management background matters most," said Shane Gwin, co-owner of Denver Fence Guys.

Beyond new installation, the company provides fence inspection, repair, component replacement, rust treatment, and emergency repairs, along with ongoing maintenance that includes cleaning, staining, sealing, vegetation trimming, and regular inspections. Denver Fence Guys also operates a fence supply function, offering cedar and Copper Wood posts, steel posts, and related hardware and accessories to customers managing their own projects.

Denver Fence Guys is a family-owned, locally operated fence and gate contractor founded in 2007 and based in Commerce City, Colorado, with a second location in Wheat Ridge. The company serves homeowners, homeowners associations, and businesses throughout the greater Denver metropolitan area.
