

Hometown Builders Unlimited Marks 700 Completed Deck Projects

June 25, 2026

SLINGER, WI - June 25, 2026 -
Hometown Builders Unlimited, the southeastern Wisconsin contractor known to many homeowners as Hometown Deck Builders, has completed more than 700 custom deck projects, a milestone reached on the strength of more than 30 years of combined industry experience among its team. Founded in 2019 and now operating from offices in Slinger and Delafield, the company builds its work around low-maintenance composite and PVC decking and holds TimberTech Platinum contractor status.

Custom deck construction is the company's core focus. Rather than positioning itself as a general remodeler, Hometown Builders Unlimited concentrates on decks built from composite and PVC, materials selected for their resistance to fading, staining, and moisture through Wisconsin's freeze and thaw cycles. Each project is handled in-house, beginning with a design consultation and three-dimensional modeling and moving through foundation work, permitting, and framing before installation, so the structure and the finished surface are planned together from the start. Homeowners review a rendering of the proposed deck during planning, which the company uses to confirm layout, materials, and railing and lighting choices before any boards are ordered.

"Reaching 700 decks comes from staying in one lane and doing it well," said Tyler Anders, owner of Hometown Builders Unlimited. "We design and build for the way a deck has to perform through Wisconsin winters, and that focus is what brings homeowners back and leads them to refer us to their neighbors."

The company attributes much of that durability record to what sits beneath the surface. Decks are framed in materials ranging from pressure-treated lumber to steel, aluminum, and composite, and set on helical piers designed to keep foundations stable below the frost line. Matching the framing and foundation to each site, the company says, is what allows a deck to hold its shape through the repeated freeze and thaw movement common across Washington and Waukesha counties.

Hometown Builders Unlimited holds TimberTech Platinum contractor status along with NADRA Deck Safety Certification and Westbury Master Pros credentials, and it is a member of the North American Deck and Railing Association. The company works primarily with TimberTech by AZEK composite and PVC decking and backs each completed project with a lifetime workmanship warranty.

While decks remain the focus, the company also builds related outdoor living features as part of the same design, including pergolas, patios, porches, three-season rooms, and outdoor kitchens. Anders said those features are approached as extensions of a deck rather than as separate services, allowing a single plan to connect the spaces and the materials used across them.

The company's growth has tracked alongside the project milestone. Since its founding, Hometown Builders Unlimited has expanded from its original Slinger base to a second office in Delafield, extending its reach further into Waukesha County while continuing to serve the Washington County communities where it started.

"Opening a second location lets us serve more of southeastern Wisconsin without losing the hands-on approach we began with," Anders said. "The goal has never been to be the largest builder in the region, only to be the one homeowners trust with a project they expect to enjoy for decades."

Hometown Builders Unlimited, known to homeowners as Hometown Deck Builders, is a family-owned custom deck and outdoor living contractor owned by Tyler Anders, with offices in Slinger and Delafield, Wisconsin. The company specializes in custom composite and PVC deck construction and builds pergolas, patios, porches, three-season rooms, and complete outdoor living spaces as part of the same design, serving Slinger, Delafield, and the surrounding Washington and Waukesha county communities.
