Jump Around Party Rentals Expands Service Area Across Central Texas

June 26, 2026

Round Rock, Texas - June 26, 2026 -
Jump Around Party Rentals, a Round Rock-based party and event rental company, has expanded its delivery coverage across Central Texas and launched a redesigned service area resource detailing every city, neighborhood, and community the company now reaches from its Williamson County headquarters.

The expanded footprint now spans Travis County, Williamson County, Bell County, and the surrounding Central Texas region, adding communities in Burnet County, Milam County, and Lampasas County to a delivery network that already covered the core Greater Austin metro. The company serves more than 60 cities and communities, stretching from Marble Falls in the Hill Country to Cameron in the east, from Jarrell and Granger in northern Williamson County to Kyle and Buda along the southern I-35 corridor.

William Gann, owner of Jump Around Party Rentals, said the expansion reflects both the company's operational capacity and the growth patterns reshaping Central Texas.

"We've been watching this region grow for years, and so many of these communities that used to feel far out are now full of families who want the same level of service that Round Rock and Cedar Park customers have come to expect," Gann said. "We're not just adding cities to a list. We're committing to showing up on time, setting up professionally, and making sure every customer gets the same experience no matter where they are."

Jump Around Party Rentals delivers bounce houses, water slides, obstacle courses, carnival rides, concession machines, tables and chairs, tents, and full event packages. The company provides setup and teardown at every location, with certificates of insurance available same-day for school districts and HOAs across the service area.

Gann said the updated service area hub was built to give customers genuine local information rather than a generic page with a city name dropped into a template.

"We put real information on every city page," he said. "School districts, parks, specific neighborhoods, the kind of knowledge that matters when you're trying to figure out whether a vendor actually knows your area or is just saying they deliver there. We do both HOA events and backyard birthday parties, and those are very different conversations depending on the city."

The company's primary delivery cities include Austin, Round Rock, Cedar Park, Georgetown, Leander, Hutto, Pflugerville, Manor, Liberty Hill, and Florence in the greater Austin corridor, plus Killeen, Temple, Belton, and Taylor serving the Bell County and eastern Williamson County markets. Each of those cities now has a dedicated local page on the Jump Around Party Rentals website covering neighborhood-level delivery notes, school district COI protocols, and local park and venue information.

Beyond those anchored cities, the expanded service area includes communities across a wide swath of Central Texas. In Williamson County, the company now explicitly serves Jarrell, Granger, Schwertner, Coupland, Thorndale, Bartlett, and Weir. Travis County coverage extends to Del Valle, Lago Vista, Lakeway, Bee Cave, Manchaca, Elgin, Red Rock, Driftwood, Spicewood, Steiner Ranch, and Wells Branch. In Bell County, the company reaches Harker Heights, Nolanville, Salado, Rogers, Holland, Lott, Kempner, and Lampasas. The surrounding regional coverage adds Buda, Kyle, Dripping Springs, Wimberley, Bertram, Burnet, Marble Falls, Horseshoe Bay, Kingsland, Granite Shoals, Meadowlakes, Buchanan Dam, Cameron, Giddings, Academy, Gatesville, and Morgans Point Resort.

Gann said the Bell County expansion has been particularly meaningful for the company, given the concentration of military families in the Killeen and Fort Hood area.

"Fort Hood has a large population of families who are far from home and looking for ways to create memories together," he said. "We do homecoming events, family readiness group gatherings, and community celebrations on post. That community has welcomed us, and we take that seriously."

The company has operated out of Round Rock since its founding and has built its reputation primarily through repeat customers and referrals in the core Williamson County and Travis County markets. The service area expansion formalizes delivery commitments that the company had been fulfilling on a call-in basis for some time.

"A lot of these communities we were already serving," Gann said. "What we wanted to do was be explicit about it so customers in Temple or Marble Falls or Dripping Springs knew they didn't have to wonder. They can see their city on our site, see what we deliver there, and book the same way any Austin or Round Rock customer would."

The updated service area hub at jump-aroundpartyrentals.com/service-areas/ lists all cities and communities by county, links to dedicated city pages where they exist, and provides general delivery and COI information for communities that fall outside the primary delivery footprint. Customers in areas not explicitly listed are encouraged to call the company directly at (512) 294-2221, as the company evaluates deliveries by address and can typically reach most Central Texas locations.
