The Likeability Blueprint - a new personal development training course - has just been released to the public, generating a frenzied buzz of media attention. The excitement surrounding the program's launch has prompted HonestyFirstReviews.com's Tiffany Hendricks to conduct and publish a comprehensive review of the program.

"These days many people are feeling tremendous pressure to excel in today's ultra-competitive post-recession job market," says Hendricks. "At the same time there's also pressure to attract the ideal mate, maintain a healthy relationship with them, and to simultaneously enjoy an active social life. All of this can add up to a lot of stress and it's very common for folks to feel like they are 'falling short' of the attaining the level of success that they expect from themselves. So, when I found out about the release of Mark Williams' Likeability Blueprint, I was very eager to do a review of the course. The premise behind Mark's program is that you can use something he calls 'Secret Auto Magnetism' to become a become a well liked 'success magnet', and I wanted to verify the validity of this claim."

Hendricks' review explains that the system is available online only, via Mark Williams' secure website.

Customers can access the course through a private member's portal containing the Likeability Blueprint PDF as well as a complete audio version of the training. At the time of this writing the program comes bundled with several additional bonus training courses including: a guided meditation program entitled "Live Your BEST Life", audio recordings of the "Ultimate Influence Private Workshop", and a guide to small talk, as well as other additional trainings.

"One of the things that really impressed us about Mark's program is the fact that it is a true 'blueprint' for utilizing the science of likeability," says Hendricks. "At first I was a bit concerned that I'd already be familiar with the program's content. I've studied success and likeability for many years, so I wasn't sure if there was going to be anything new for me to learn. Luckily however, these concerns were unfounded as this course contains a wealth of new and little known techniques for magnetically attracting success. All things considered we are excited to name Mark's Likeability Blueprint as our number one most highly recommended social success training system."
