You have to give people the best possible experience in every transaction... before, during and after." Many testimonials are available on sandiegohomes4u.com.

Dennis Smith himself says: "I am a Realtor through and through, it's in my blood. For 21 years now, I have aimed to help people sell homes and also find the homes of their dreams, be that for seniors or any other type of buyer or seller. I am so proud of the fact that I am ranked five stars for eight years in a row now, and really want to thank my clients for their continued support, and I look forward to working with many more people."

Over the past 21 years, San Diego Homes For You has moved with the times, using new and emerging technology to help people find their dream property. As such, they offer a comprehensive search for homes feature on their website, that enables people to look for the properties they like before having to contact the Realtor. The search facility features 100% of the homes in the MLS and it is current as of a few minutes from when the listing agent hits save on the listing update. It also enables people to highlight certain specific things they are looking for, in order to narrow down their results.

"To make things easier, I have included instant links to 55+ senior homes, new constructions, ocean view homes, and bank owned homes," adds Dennis Smith. "However, people can also search specifically for an area, a type of home, a price range, or many other things. Naturally, they can also simply contact me to discuss their requirements."

Dennis Smith has also posted many great articles to help people in their search for their perfect home. These are all available on his website as well. He also works with his wife, Sunshine Smith, who has been a Realtor for 16 years.
