The website Hongkiat.com is known for its emphasis on features about modern design and technology. Their recent article about kitchen gadgets was their way of looking at modern useful tools in the kitchen. According to the website, the feature would be interesting to those who find cooking as ?one of the many splendors of life.?

According to the website for those who are not fans of cooking because they hate chopping up ingredients, the gadgets listed may change their minds. Some of the gadgets ?save time for food preparation and take the annoyance of mundane tasks out of the kitchen, while others help keep your kitchen clean and in order.?

Some of the gadgets included a ramen bowl that can also store a smartphone, a banana slicer, egg molds, stainless steel pineapple corer/slicer, strawberry stem remover and the herbs scissors. The website described the herb scissors as a handy gadget to chop herbs fine, quick and easy.
