Tand's TV Pros has announced that they are providing television repair services in Los Angeles, California. The company states that they are a capable repair shop, and that they can handle all of the most common problems that may occur with a television. "We're experienced, qualified, and educated technicians who are ready to help you to find a solution to your television woes," says a spokesperson for the company.

The company states that they focus on providing the highest quality of repairs, but with an even higher level of customer service. They claim that many television repair services in the area have the experience and training needed to perform the required services, but lack general customer support skills.

"When we say we'll be there, we will be there," says the company spokesperson. "We know that your time and money are valuable, and we will do everything in our power to ensure that your television is repaired quickly and at a cost that fits into your budget."

The repair shop, which can be seen at http://tandstvpros.com, states that they can repair virtually any television brand and type, and that all of their employees stay up to date on the latest technology and training. They are now offering home services around the clock in the Los Angeles area, and state that unlike other area TV repair companies, home services are free of charge. They state that they will focus on repairing all televisions onsite at the customer's home and if that is not possible, they will provide a fast turnaround from their shop.

The company spokesperson states that customers will only be charged for the actual services performed by the technician as well as any new parts that are needed. They are offering a guarantee that the entire home repair process will never take longer than an hour, and state that they only use new and original parts for repairs.

They offer a range of services including fixing televisions with bad pictures or sound, repairing horizontal lines, and various other issues on televisions of all models. Those interested in learning more can visit the new company on their official website, where a complete list of their repair services and service areas can be found.
