LIMBitless, Inc., a business in Meridian, ID, has announced key partnerships and a network designed for wounded veterans and adaptive communities. The organization, which is a 501(c)3 registered nonprofit organization, is excited to now be a chapter with Adaptive Sports USA, whose global mission aligns with that of LIMBitless, Inc. Furthermore, they have partnered with the Wyakin Warrior Foundation, AccesSurf Hawaii, and FreeBoern Air Sports. More details about these relationships are available at www.limbitlesslife.org.

Ronald Kern, Executive Director of LIMBitless, Inc. says: "It's important that we partner with other like-minded organizations that have the same end goal in mind. We are diligent to ensure anyone we partner with has a solid track record, is like-minded, and have the same mission in mind, and that is serving others."

The nonprofit has also started the LIMBitless online community. This community is designed to help create a cooperative affiliation. Members include doctors, prosthetists, physical therapists, technology specialists, veteran resources, adaptive sports equipment companies, and more. The community is designed to assist individuals in finding the right fit for whatever need they may require.

LIMBitless, Inc. believes that everyone who joins will be able to enjoy a number of benefits. Their objective is to empower people to reach new goals and to 'Go Beyond' in order to gain confidence, direction and new passions through sports and recreation. Those who join through <http://www.limbitlesslife.org/#!/join-community/ntjs7> will be given instant access to resources, education, and worldwide connection. Joining is free and quick, and those who sign up will be able to enjoy ever increasing benefits.

"You can speak directly to another adaptive person, find a mentor, or post a question to the entire community," adds Ronald Kern. "It's simplistic, yet powerful."

People are also encouraged to consider making a donation to LIMBitless to enable them to continue their important work. Donations can be made online through <http://www.limbitlesslife.org/#!/donate/pxmab>. With these donations, the free community can continue to run, and additional benefits can be provided to members. Furthermore, it can be used towards developing other adaptive services. As LIMBitless is a 501(c)3 registered charity, donations may be tax deductible.
