Interactive miniature city marks a decade of play-based learning and launches Summer Pass 2026 for unlimited family fun

The World of Kidtropolis, an interactive miniature city where children explore careers through imaginative play, is celebrating its 10th anniversary in 2026. Located at 110-5940 No 2 Road in Richmond, the family attraction has welcomed thousands of families over the past decade and is marking the milestone with the launch of its Summer Pass 2026 program.

Kidtropolis offers children a safe indoor environment where they can role-play as doctors, shop owners, pilots, and more in a kid-sized city. The space features a grocery store, airplane, and restaurant-themed play areas designed to develop social and cognitive skills through hands-on exploration. Each zone is built at a child's scale, allowing little ones to fully immerse themselves in the experience of running a store, flying a plane, or preparing meals in a restaurant kitchen. The facility operates Tuesday through Sunday and on statutory holidays from 10 AM to 5 PM, giving families consistent access to creative play throughout the week.

To celebrate its 10th year, Kidtropolis has introduced the Summer Pass 2026, available for $99 plus tax from now until September 6, 2026. The pass provides unlimited access to the miniature city all summer long, giving families an affordable way to keep children engaged in creative play during school breaks. "Kidtropolis is kid heaven, which means it is a pretty great parent heaven too," shared one long-time visitor. "There are many unique play and learning opportunities for children, all in a safe, clean, and beautiful environment. Our daughter absolutely loves playing here and gets stimulated creatively, mentally, and physically."

The facility also hosts birthday parties with dedicated party rooms and staff who manage the entire event, allowing parents to relax while children play. Smaller party rooms fit groups of up to 6 children with accompanying adults, and popular time slots book quickly on weekends. Staff coordinate food service, cleanup, and activity timing so the celebration flows seamlessly from play time to cake and presents. The indoor setting means parties proceed rain or shine, making Kidtropolis a reliable choice for Richmond families planning a child's special day.

In addition to birthday parties, Kidtropolis runs Toddler Tuesdays, which offer a quieter, age-appropriate environment for younger children to explore the miniature city at their own pace. The program has become a favourite among parents of toddlers and preschoolers who appreciate the reduced crowd levels and the opportunity to let their little ones explore freely. Educators recommend this type of play-based learning for early childhood development, as it builds social skills, cognitive abilities, and motor coordination through hands-on role-playing activities.

Families interested in visiting can purchase tickets or a Summer Pass online. Kidtropolis is located in Richmond and welcomes children of all ages, with particular appeal for toddlers through early elementary age. The facility is cleaned and sanitized throughout the day, and free parking is available on site. As Kidtropolis enters its second decade, the team continues to expand the play areas and programming to keep the miniature city fresh and engaging for returning visitors.

Since opening its doors in 2016, Kidtropolis has welcomed thousands of families from across the Lower Mainland and beyond. The facility has become a staple of the Richmond community, offering a unique blend of education and entertainment that keeps children coming back. With over 15 different role-playing stations, the miniature city provides endless opportunities for kids to explore, imagine, and learn through hands-on experiences that build confidence and social skills.
