

Hybridley Showcases Event Registration Platform Success with The Sweeney Zone for DECA?s ?Shoppertunity Experience?

July 23, 2026

Marietta, Georgia - July 23, 2026 -
Hybridley, a hybrid event solutions provider based in Atlanta, Georgia, has partnered with The Sweeney Zone for the DECA ?Shoppertunity Experience? at AmericasMart Atlanta. The collaboration highlights how modern event technology can streamline complex registration processes for large-scale educational conferences.

The Hybridley registration system managed student and advisor registrations for DECA's signature retail merchandising event, showcasing the platform's ability to handle high-volume, multi-group registrations while maintaining organizational clarity. DECA, which prepares emerging leaders and entrepreneurs for college and careers, required a robust solution to coordinate attendance from multiple schools and registration groups.

"Managing registration for students across multiple schools requires a platform that can handle complexity without sacrificing user experience," said Nick Snider, founder of Hybridley. "Our system allowed The Sweeney Zone to focus on delivering educational value while we handled the technical infrastructure that made seamless registration and check-in possible."

The event platform provided The Sweeney Zone administrators with real-time visibility into registration progress through a centralized dashboard that tracked enrollments, payment processing, and attendee organization. The system's integration with Stripe enabled secure online payment collection, while automated QR code generation simplified the check-in process for event staff.

Implementing Hybridley?s registration system addressed several critical challenges common to large educational conferences. Group registration capabilities allowed advisors to register multiple students simultaneously, reducing administrative burden and ensuring accurate school-level organization. Real-time reporting features provided instant access to registration metrics and payment status, enabling The Sweeney Zone?s staff to make informed decisions throughout the planning process.

Hybridley?s administrative tools proved particularly valuable for managing the multi-faceted nature of the Shoppertunity Experience. Event organizers could monitor registration trends, identify potential capacity issues, and adjust logistics accordingly. Hybridly?s system flexibility allowed for real-time updates and modifications without disrupting the registration flow for participants.

Beyond registration management, Hybridley demonstrated its value in creating a professional experience for attendees. The QR code-based check-in system reduced wait times and eliminated paper-based processes, while the organized grouping by school and registration category helped maintain structure throughout the event for anyone that was considered a ?walk up? registrant.

The successful deployment represents a growing trend in educational conference management, where organizations seek technology partners, such as Hybridley, capable of handling both virtual and in-person event components. As educational institutions and professional organizations continue to adapt their event strategies, Hybridley helps them seamlessly manage complex registration requirements while providing comprehensive administrative tools that become increasingly essential.

Hybridley specializes in hybrid event solutions that combine virtual and in-person elements for conferences, meetings, and corporate events. The company, powered by Atlanta Media Services, provides comprehensive event production services including streaming capabilities, interactive platforms, and nationwide support for organizations seeking to enhance engagement and visibility across distributed audiences.
