

S&J Printing Achieves 150 Five-Star Reviews as Custom Screen Printing Shop Reaches Service Benchmark

July 09, 2026

ORANGE PARK, FL - July 09, 2026 -

S&J Printing, an Orange Park-based screen printing company, has achieved 150 five-star Google reviews, marking a measurable benchmark in customer feedback for the local printing services provider.

The review milestone coincides with increased demand for custom screen printed apparel among local businesses seeking uniform solutions and branded merchandise for their employees. The achievement represents documented customer feedback accumulated over the company's years of operation in the Clay County, FL market.

"Reaching 150 five-star reviews provides measurable feedback about our operations," said Jeff Fravala, owner of S&J Printing. "Each review represents a completed project, from custom t-shirts to yard signs or business cards. This feedback helps us understand which services resonate with local businesses and organizations."

S&J Printing shop specializes in screen printed t-shirts, producing apparel ranging from basic cotton to moisture-wicking performance fabrics. The company operates traditional screen printing equipment alongside modern technology to handle orders of varying sizes for businesses, schools, and organizations.

The company's service offerings extend beyond t-shirt printing to include yard signs, vehicle magnets, postcards, flyers, door hangers, business cards, and brochures. These printing services address various marketing and operational needs for businesses in the Orange Park and Jacksonville, FL areas of Northeast Florida.

Customer reviews frequently reference specific service aspects including production timelines, print quality, and order processing. The feedback indicates that businesses particularly value the company's capacity to accommodate rush orders while maintaining production standards.

"The printing industry has experienced technological changes that affect production methods and customer requirements," noted Fravala. "Our review data shows that businesses value both updated printing capabilities and direct service access. Whether a small local business needs 50 custom t-shirts for their team or a large company orders 200 units of business apparel for their staff, we approach each project with the same production standards."

S&J Printing company has operated in the Orange Park area serving various client segments including schools, sports teams, and businesses requiring custom apparel for uniforms, events, and promotional purposes. The company's screen printing services have become a regular resource for organizations needing branded apparel solutions.

The 150-review milestone occurs during a period of growth in the custom printing sector, with market data showing increased demand for personalized products and localized marketing materials. Industry reports indicate that printing businesses with documented customer satisfaction metrics typically maintain stronger client retention rates.

The company's production capabilities span multiple printing methods and materials, allowing businesses to source various printed products from a single vendor. This service range includes both digital and screen printing processes, depending on order specifications and quantity requirements.

S&J Printing maintains detailed service information on its website, where businesses can review available printing options and submit project specifications for pricing. The company continues to adapt its service offerings based on market demands while maintaining the production standards reflected in its customer review profile.
