

Restoration Health Chiropractic Provides Neck Pain Treatment in Faulkner County, AR

July 09, 2026

CONWAY, AR - July 09, 2026 -

Restoration Health Chiropractic serves as a neck pain chiropractor in Faulkner County, AR through its Conway location. The site delivers neurologically-based corrective chiropractic care focused on spinal health and nervous system function for residents experiencing neck pain and related concerns.

The Conway chiropractic practice provides the same comprehensive protocols as the primary facility. Patients benefit from patient-centered care in a state-of-the-art facility designed for comfort and convenience. The practice emphasizes informed decision-making through patient education on health and treatment options.

Initial appointments at the Conway location begin with a one-on-one consultation with a doctor. This discussion covers health history, concerns such as neck pain, and goals to help formulate a plan addressing underlying issues. It is followed by a complete spinal examination that includes motion and static palpation, range of motion assessment, digital posture analysis, orthopedic and neurological testing, and digital motion

X-rays. These real-time imaging tools enable observation of joint function and identification of conditions not visible on static images. The process concludes with a personalized game plan tailored to individual needs.

The clinical team supporting the Conway location brings relevant expertise. Dr. Michael Butler, Owner and Chief Vision Officer, is a native of Hope, Arkansas. He earned a bachelor's degree in nutrition from the University of Central Arkansas and his doctor of chiropractic degree from Life University. During his studies, he obtained advanced training in Chiropractic Biophysics, pediatrics, maternal care, and full spine techniques. His background as a multi-sport athlete and personal trainer informs his commitment to corrective care and healthy lifestyles.

Dr. Keith Beachy serves as Lead Doctor. An Arkansas native from Fort Smith, he holds board certifications in chiropractic and functional medicine and certification in neuropathy. He completed a bachelor's degree in exercise science from the University of Arkansas and his doctor of chiropractic degree from Parker University. His experience in an integrated medical setting reinforced the value of holistic approaches in supporting the body's natural healing abilities.

Chiropractic adjustments in Little Rock and Conway at Restoration Health Chiropractic utilize Chiropractic Biophysics techniques. This scientifically validated method is supported by over 150 peer-reviewed studies and seven textbooks. It applies principles of anatomy, physiology, neurology, physics, and geometry to restore normal spinal alignment and support the body's innate healing capacity, particularly relevant for neck pain resulting from misalignments or trauma.

The practice's mission is to serve the community through neurologically-based corrective chiropractic care. Its vision is to empower individuals to make informed health decisions for their families, raising a healthier generation with reduced dependence on medications and greater ability to achieve their purposes. Patient education is central, helping people understand spinal mechanics, including those contributing to neck pain, and daily habits that support wellness.

Restoration Health Chiropractic has experience assisting individuals with neck pain and related concerns. The holistic approach customizes treatment plans to individual needs, prioritizing full spine techniques and structural correction. The Conway facility creates a relaxing environment where patients can receive care focused on long-term spinal integrity and nervous system function.

Dr. Michael Butler, Owner and Chief Vision Officer at Restoration Health Chiropractic, said, "Our Conway location allows us to serve residents throughout Faulkner County with personalized chiropractic care. Through detailed evaluations and individualized care plans, we help patients better understand the factors contributing to neck pain and work toward improved comfort and mobility."

Dr. Keith Beachy, Lead Doctor at Restoration Health Chiropractic, said, "Our team's experience in chiropractic care, functional medicine, exercise science, and biomechanics allows us to take a comprehensive approach to each patient's health. We evaluate the factors affecting spinal function and create personalized treatment plans for patients experiencing neck pain and other spinal concerns."

The Conway office integrates seamlessly with the practice's operations. It accepts new patients and maintains identical standards across locations. Follow-up care monitors progress in alignment, mobility, and function using the same digital tools and objective testing. Educational resources complement in-office visits by promoting habits that support spinal health between appointments.

This provision of services at the Conway location aligns with the practice's commitment to accessible chiropractic care in central Arkansas. The team applies consistent protocols while tailoring recommendations to each patient's unique situation. The focus remains on neurological integrity and structural correction to facilitate natural healing responses.

Restoration Health Chiropractic operates with a patient-centered philosophy. The Conway site upholds a welcoming atmosphere and dedication to informed decision-making. By combining advanced techniques with professional expertise, the practice supports individuals seeking sustainable improvements in spinal health and daily function, including relief from neck pain.

The availability at Conway increases convenience for Faulkner County residents and surrounding communities. Appointments follow structured processes that prioritize detailed assessment and customized care. The practice continues to emphasize natural wellness strategies grounded in established chiropractic principles.

Restoration Health Chiropractic maintains its foundation in scientifically informed methods. The Conway presence extends its reach while preserving core values of thorough evaluation, corrective techniques, and patient education that define its approach to care.
