

High Quality Fence Expands Fencing and Gate Services for Manteca and Central Valley Property Owners

July 14, 2026

MANTECA, CA - July 14, 2026 -

High Quality Fence, the fencing company owned by Moises Flores, is broadening the range of fence styles, materials, and gate options it offers to homeowners and businesses across Manteca and the surrounding Central Valley. The expansion gives property owners a single local source for fencing, gates, and automated access as demand grows for both residential privacy and commercial security.

"Every property line is a little different, so we've built our services around choice," said Moises Flores, owner of High Quality Fence. "Whether a homeowner wants privacy in the backyard or a business needs a secure perimeter, we want them to have the right material and the right design for the job ? not a one-size-fits-all fence."

The company installs residential and commercial fencing in wood, vinyl, chain link, wrought iron, and ornamental iron. Wood remains a common choice for traditional privacy fencing, while vinyl is often selected for lower long-term upkeep. Chain link provides a straightforward boundary for larger or agricultural properties, and ornamental iron is typically used where security and appearance matter equally. The company also builds agricultural and pool fencing, with pool enclosures designed to meet local safety codes while fitting the look of a backyard. Work covers both new installations and full replacements of aging or damaged fencing.

Gate work has become a larger part of the business. Alongside fencing, High Quality Fence handles gate consultation, design, fabrication, and installation for swing, slide, cantilever, and pedestrian gates, along with operators that automate them. For properties that need more, the team installs access control systems such as keypad entry, card readers, and intercoms, turning a simple entry point into a fuller security feature that the company says customers increasingly request.

"More of our commercial and residential customers are asking to tie their gates into an access system rather than open and close them by hand," Flores said. "It's a practical upgrade, and it's something we can design and install as part of the same project instead of sending people to a separate vendor."

The automated and access-controlled gates the company installs are built to pair with its fencing work, so a perimeter and its entry points are handled together rather than pieced out across multiple contractors.

Repair and maintenance round out the expanded services. The company repairs fences, from inspecting and replacing damaged components to emergency work when weather or impact compromises a fence, a frequent need after the wind events that move through the Central Valley. Sealing and staining help wood fences resist wear from regional heat and seasonal moisture, extending the life of an existing fence without a full replacement.

"A fence takes a beating out here between the sun and the wind, and most people don't want to replace the whole thing when one section goes down," Flores said. "Being family-owned and local means we can respond quickly and stand behind the repair personally ? the same way we'd want someone to treat our own property."

Flores founded High Quality Fence in 2019 after more than 14 years in the local fencing industry, where he worked from laborer into sales, estimating, and day-to-day operations before starting the company with his wife.

High Quality Fence serves the Manteca area with residential and commercial fencing, backing its projects with material warranties of up to 15 years on fences. Financing is available for larger fencing or gate projects, allowing customers to move forward without delaying the work. The company provides free estimates for property owners considering a new fence, gate, or access control system. Each estimate covers material options, layout, and scope, giving customers a defined starting point before committing to a project.
