May 16, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bug Depot Do It Yourself Pest Control, based in Spring Hill, FL, has announced the launch of their new VIP customer newsletter. The company states that the newsletter will include special offers that will only be available to members of the club.

Ryan Doerrfeld, owner of Bug Depot Do It Yourself Pest Control says, "We're excited to have launched our new VIP newsletter, which will also include news about what's working now in the area for particular pest control problems."

Doerrfeld states that Bug Depot believes that their newsletter will be a valuable service to those living in the area, as it will provide insights into industry news and things that consumers can do to help prevent and treat pest problems.

"Pest control is not always easy," Doerrfeld adds. "You need something that you can rely on for tips, guidance, and overall news and updates about things that are rolling out in the bug control industry. That's why we've created the newsletter."

The company states that they will offer the newsletter on a regular basis to customers who are members of their VIP club. In addition to tips and industry news, Doerrfeld states that occasionally the company will offer discounts and other promotions to their loyal customers, that can only be accessed through the newsletter. He says that this is in an effort to reward their customers for staying loyal to the company, and to give them something back in appreciation for choosing Bug Depot for their pest care needs.

"We always want to make our customers feel like they special people that they are," Doerrfeld states. "Our newsletter was designed specifically for that purpose."

The company offers tips and insights on their website as well, that cover do it yourself pest control and various other consumer issues where rodents and pests are concerned. Doerrfeld says that their entire business is built on helping consumers to save money while getting high quality and professional levels of pest control. He states that many pest problems can be handled by the consumer; they just need to know the right steps to take in order to see results.
