

EJS Deck & Home Solutions Sponsors Local Firefighters and Youth Team

July 14, 2026

HANSON, MA - July 14, 2026 -

EJS Deck & Home Solutions, a family-owned deck contractor based in Hanson, Massachusetts, is a sponsor of local firefighters and a youth baseball team on the South Shore. Owner Josh Steinman said the support reflects the company's commitment to the community where it lives and works.

Steinman has worked in construction for more than 20 years and founded EJS in 2021. He built the business first on interior remodeling and basement projects before shifting his focus toward custom deck and outdoor-living construction, which has since become the company's core specialty. That path shaped how the company approaches its work today, pairing hands-on building experience with a narrower focus on decks. EJS now serves homeowners within roughly a 25-mile radius of Hanson.

Much of the company's work centers on helping homeowners choose the right material for a deck that will stand up to New England weather. EJS is a certified installer for Trex, TimberTech by AZEK, and Deckorators, and it holds Trex Rain Escape certification for underdeck drainage. Composite decking resists fading and staining and requires less upkeep than wood, which makes it a common choice in a region that moves through freeze and thaw each year. Wood remains an option for homeowners who prefer a natural material, and the company builds with both.

Beyond material selection, EJS handles complete deck construction from start to finish. The work runs from foundation and framing through permitting and final build-out, for both residential and commercial properties. The company uses 3D models during the design stage so homeowners can see a project before construction begins, which helps set expectations on layout, sightlines, and how a finished deck will fit the property. Deck styles include platform, raised, multi-level, pool, and covered designs.

Railings, lighting, and underdeck systems round out the company's deck work. EJS installs railing in composite, glass, and cable to suit different styles, from solid panels to open cable runs that keep a view clear. Deck lighting is built in as well, with fixtures set into stairs and railings that extend the usable hours of an outdoor space into the evening and improve footing after dark. For elevated decks, the company's underdeck drainage systems channel water away from the boards above, creating a dry, usable area below for storage or additional living space.

EJS is a member of the North American Deck and Railing Association and is licensed and insured in Massachusetts. The company backs its work with a three-year workmanship warranty, and the composite products it installs carry manufacturer material warranties of up to 50 years. Financing is available on qualifying projects, which gives homeowners more room to plan larger outdoor projects over time.

"I've spent my whole career working with my hands, and there's nothing better than handing a family a finished deck they'll enjoy for years," said Josh Steinman, owner of EJS Deck & Home Solutions. "Supporting the local team and the fire department comes from the same place. This is where we live and work, and we want to be part of it."
