

Bandpass Design Addresses Growing Demand for Multi-Purpose Board Game Dining Tables

July 30, 2026

Edmonds, Washington - July 30, 2026 -
Bandpass Design, a handcrafted furniture manufacturer based in Edmonds, Washington, is meeting the increasing demand for multi-functional living spaces with its Dresden Board Game Dining Table, as homeowners seek furniture that seamlessly transitions between everyday dining and entertainment purposes.

The trend toward multi-purpose furniture has accelerated as homeowners look to maximize their living spaces without dedicating entire rooms to single activities. The Dresden table addresses this need by combining a premium dining surface with a concealed gaming vault, allowing families to host dinner parties and board game nights using the same piece of furniture.

"Modern homeowners want furniture that adapts to their lifestyle rather than forcing them to adapt their homes," said AJ Hansen of Bandpass Design. "The Dresden table represents a shift in how people think about their living spaces ? they no longer need a separate game room to enjoy quality time with family and friends over board games."

The Dresden features solid hardwood construction using walnut, cherry, white oak, or maple, with each piece handcrafted in the company's Washington workshop. The table's design incorporates a removable dining topper that reveals a bamboo gaming surface underneath, complete with player stations, card slots, counter holders, cup holders, and dice bins. When closed, the table maintains the appearance of traditional dining furniture, fitting naturally into main living spaces.

Customization options allow homeowners to select their preferred hardwood finish, gaming fabric, and optional accessories such as leaf keeps, accessory racks, and dice bin covers. The table comes in three sizes ? Standard, XL, and Battleground ? accommodating different room dimensions and group sizes.

The growing popularity of board games among adults has created demand for furniture that supports this hobby without compromising home aesthetics. Industry data shows that the board game market has experienced consistent growth over the past decade, with many adults rediscovering tabletop gaming as a social activity that encourages face-to-face interaction.

"We're seeing customers who want to invest in furniture that will last generations while serving multiple purposes," Hansen noted. "The Dresden isn't just about playing games ? it's about creating a gathering place that transitions effortlessly from morning coffee to family dinner to game night."

The company's approach to board game dining tables emphasizes durability and timeless design, with each piece built to withstand daily use while maintaining its aesthetic appeal. The Dresden's modern styling distinguishes it from traditional game tables that often appear out of place in contemporary homes.

Bandpass Design specializes in creating modern board game tables and related furniture for homeowners seeking multi-functional pieces.
