

Bay Clinic of Chiropractic Addresses Growing Demand for Root-Cause Healthcare Solutions

July 21, 2026

Panama City, FL - July 21, 2026 -

Bay Clinic of Chiropractic in Panama City, Florida, reports an increasing number of patients seeking alternatives to conventional symptom management for chronic health conditions. The clinic's comprehensive approach combines functional medicine, chiropractic care, and clinical nutrition to identify and treat underlying causes of persistent health issues.

The clinic, led by Dr. Tony Salamay since 2010, specializes in addressing complex conditions, including autoimmune disorders, digestive issues, hormonal imbalances, thyroid disorders, chronic fatigue, and fibromyalgia. Through advanced diagnostics and personalized treatment protocols, the practice focuses on restoring the brain-body connection rather than merely suppressing symptoms.

"Patients often come to us after years of temporary fixes and mounting frustration with conventional approaches," said Dr. Tony Salamay, functional medicine doctor at Bay Clinic of Chiropractic. "Our goal is to uncover why their bodies aren't functioning optimally and create individualized treatment plans that restore health at the cellular level."

The clinic's patient-centered methodology involves comprehensive testing and in-depth analysis to develop fully personalized care plans. This approach has attracted patients from across the Florida Panhandle and surrounding regions who seek drug-free solutions to chronic health challenges.

Recent data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention indicates that approximately 60 percent of American adults have at least one chronic disease, with many experiencing multiple conditions simultaneously. This growing health crisis has led to increased interest in functional medicine approaches that address root causes rather than managing symptoms alone.

The practice offers a range of services including chiropractic neurology, applied kinesiology, sacro occipital technique, and various nutritional and therapeutic interventions. Virtual clinic options have expanded access to care for patients unable to visit the Panama City location in person.

"The conventional medical model excels at acute care, but chronic conditions require a different approach," noted Dr. Salamay. "By examining how all body systems interact and identifying dysfunction at its source, we can help patients achieve lasting improvements in their health and quality of life."

The clinic's integrated approach particularly benefits patients with complex, multi-system conditions that have proven resistant to traditional treatment methods. By combining multiple disciplines under one roof, the practice provides coordinated care that addresses the interconnected nature of chronic health issues.

Bay Clinic of Chiropractic has served the Panama City community for over a decade, establishing itself as a resource for those seeking alternatives to conventional symptom management. The clinic's focus on identifying and resolving root causes of chronic health issues has helped numerous patients regain vitality and improve their overall wellness through personalized, drug-free treatment protocols.
