Kokomo, Indiana - July 15, 2026 -

Brandt's Heating, Cooling & Electrical is marking more than two decades as a family-owned and operated HVAC business serving the local community. The company, which began operations in 2003, has provided heating, cooling, and electrical services while maintaining its family-owned structure through changing seasons and industry developments. This milestone reflects the continuity and local commitment that have characterized the business since its establishment.

The family-owned and operated model has shaped Brandt's approach to service delivery over the years. Dave Brandt leads as President with more than three decades of experience in the HVAC industry, supported by Laura Brandt as Vice-President, who oversees operations. Other family members, including Lindsay Brandt as Marketing Coordinator, contribute to various aspects of the business. This structure has allowed the company to build and sustain relationships with customers and team members alike across Howard County and surrounding regions.

"Being family owned and operated has always been at the heart of who we are. For more than 20 years, we've built our business around treating customers like neighbors and employees like family. That commitment has helped us create lasting relationships throughout the communities we serve, and we're proud to continue that tradition every day," said Lindsay Brandt, Marketing Coordinator at Brandt's Heating, Cooling & Electrical.

Since starting in 2003, the company has expanded its service offerings while remaining grounded in family management principles. Brandt's provides comprehensive heating services, including furnace repair and replacement, heat pump maintenance, boiler service for various fuel types, and 24/7 emergency heating support during winter conditions common in Indiana. Its cooling capabilities encompass air conditioning repair, installation of central systems, and regular maintenance programs designed to address seasonal demands.

Electrical services form another key component of the business, covering generator installations, panel upgrades, rewiring for new construction and existing properties, and other electrical needs for homes and commercial locations. The company also handles water heater repairs, indoor air quality improvements with filter inventory and solutions, and commercial HVAC and refrigeration work. All technicians are licensed, NATE-certified, and EPA-certified, participating in ongoing factory and company training to stay current with equipment technologies and best practices.

The family-owned and operated status has supported consistent standards across more than two decades of operation. Brandt's serves a broad geographic area that includes Kokomo, Logansport, Monticello, Westfield, Noblesville, Peru, and additional nearby communities. This local focus has enabled the company to understand regional climate patterns and property types, informing its approach to maintenance, repairs, and installations.

Over the years, the business has adapted to evolving customer requirements while preserving core operational values. Family leadership has facilitated decisions that prioritize quality workmanship, transparent communication about service options, and reliable response times for both scheduled and emergency calls. The company works on all major brands of equipment and emphasizes energy-efficient systems that align with long-term property needs.

This longevity as a family-owned and operated entity has contributed to the development of a skilled workforce and established processes for handling diverse projects. From residential furnace fixes and air conditioning service to whole-house generator installations and commercial electrical solutions, the team addresses a wide spectrum of heating, cooling, and electrical challenges. The family involvement extends to administrative roles, ensuring coordinated efforts between field technicians and office support.

As Brandt's looks back on more than 20 years, the emphasis remains on the relationships formed through steady community presence. The business continues to operate with the same foundational principles that guided its early years, adapting service delivery to meet the demands of modern properties while upholding standards of professionalism and dependability.
