May 12, 2014 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Caleb Wright announced his partnership with RemarkaMobile, a direct sales company that specializes in mobile marketing strategies. Caleb joins RemarkaMobile as a highly trained certified mobile marketing advisor who can help small business owners and entrepreneurs use mobile marketing to maximize their earnings potential and increase engagement with their prospects, customers, and team members.

"I'm very excited to be in the front of the most important technology trend of our time - mobile marketing," Caleb said. "If you want to promote your business and connect with customers, mobile marketing is an essential resource for success."

In an ever-changing technological world, mobile marketing is the newest opportunity for business owners to reach their potential clients. E-mail open rates have dropped to below 20 percent, while text open rates are above 95 percent. People are spending more time away from their desktop computers, but nearly everyone can be reached at any given moment through their mobile devices. To be competitive in today's marketplace, business owners need to utilize the latest technological trends and mobile marketing is where it's at.

As a RemarkaMobile mobile marketing advisor, Caleb shows his clients how to build ongoing text campaigns and deliver clear, targeted messages to their customers' mobile devices.

"Twitter, Facebook, QR codes, mobile-friendly email, mobile-ready websites, text messaging - It can leave a business owner feeling overwhelmed. That's where I come in," Caleb said. "I can help business owners and entrepreneurs take advantage of this essential marketing tool by showing clients how to create and implement a mobile marketing strategy."

"The mCommerce (mobile) revolution is now clearly underway," said Andrew J. Cass, RemarkaMobile co-founder and president. "Since we have the most powerful Mobile Marketing platform in the world for small business owners and entrepreneurs (the same technology used by AT&T), and the most lucrative affiliate program in existence, we're attracting great people. Caleb Wright is our newest affiliate partner we are announcing to the public and we expect great things from him."
