August 13, 2026 -

Berks Plastic Surgery announced that Brian K. Reedy, MD, has been named to Newsweek and Statista's America's Best Plastic Surgeons 2026 list, earning recognition across multiple plastic surgery categories: breast augmentation, liposuction, and tummy tuck procedures.

Dr. Reedy has more than 25 years of experience with Berks Plastic Surgery, having previously completed his medical degree at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine and residencies in both General Surgery and Plastic Surgery at the University of Pennsylvania Medical Center. He holds board certification from the American Board of Plastic Surgery and maintains active memberships in the American Society of Plastic Surgeons, The Aesthetic Society, and Pennsylvania Medical Society. His expertise has brought him national media attention, including appearances on the Emmy Award-winning show The Doctors and regional programming, where he has served as an educational resource on plastic surgery topics.

The 2026 Newsweek recognition extends a pattern of national acknowledgment for Dr. Reedy that dates back to 2021, though the current listing marks his most comprehensive placement to date by spanning procedures across breast and body. The categories reflect some of the most requested procedures in plastic surgery today. Breast augmentation remains among the most performed cosmetic surgeries nationwide, while tummy tuck procedures have seen increased demand, particularly among patients seeking body contouring following weight loss or pregnancy. Recognition across several anatomical areas underscores the depth and range of expertise required in modern plastic surgery practice.

"This recognition reflects the importance of peer-driven evaluation in helping patients identify qualified surgeons," said Dr. Reedy. "As demand for cosmetic procedures continues to rise, patients face an increasingly complex landscape with many underqualified practitioners self-promoting as top providers. Methodology-based rankings like these provide crucial guidance for those seeking safe, effective surgical care."

The annual rankings are determined through a rigorous peer-nomination process. The 2026 list was compiled from more than 10,000 votes collected from physicians, surgeons, and clinic managers nationwide during spring 2026, combined with an assessed quality-of-care score covering consultation practices, complication rates, and follow-up care protocols. The peer-nomination methodology distinguishes the Newsweek rankings from other industry accolades by requiring validation from medical professionals familiar with a surgeon's work and patient outcomes.

Based in Reading, Pennsylvania, Berks Plastic Surgery offers a comprehensive range of surgical and non-surgical cosmetic procedures, as well as dermatology services. Dr. Reedy directs the practice, with an emphasis on individualized patient evaluation and education about available options, from traditional surgical procedures to newer technologies in cosmetic care. The practice recently grew with the addition of double board-certified plastic surgeon Matthew Hagan, MD, FACS, who brings years of private practice experience in addition to special training in aesthetic surgery, craniofacial surgery, and reconstructive surgery.

The Newsweek America's Best Plastic Surgeons list serves as an annual benchmark for surgical excellence, utilizing peer feedback and quality metrics to identify leading practitioners across the United States. The 2026 rankings continue this tradition of data-driven evaluation in the medical field.
