Cosmopolitan Collection recently announced the release and launch of their Cosmetic Organizer and Makeup Storage on Amazon.com. The complete injection molded makeup organizer features transparent acrylic construction as well as a separable top and bottom section that fits either by side on a flat surface or one atop the other.

Designed to easily store all beauty stuffs, the organizer includes 4 drawers each 1 inch deep and 4 inches long. The 2 top drawers are 4 inches wide while the bottom two drawers are 8 inches in width. The organizer set also includes 12 moderate depth reservoir spaces for lipstick and other small makeup pieces, 1 medium depth large reservoir space for larger cosmetic items, and spherical ergonomic handles for the drawers. The drawers pull out and glide easily, all the acrylic is completely transparent, and the entire piece is injection molded for strength. All of these features allow for great storage, ease of visibility for cosmetic products, lasting construction, and ease of washability for the organizer itself.

The cosmetic makeup organizer also includes 3 deeper reservoir spaces in the back of the top piece. These help with unique cosmetics that are either shaped oddly or tall and thin and thus have difficulty standing alone. The complete cosmetic organizer set is capable of holding liners, eyeshadow palettes, lipsticks, foundations, perfume vials, brushes, and even jewelry and sewing supplies. Each storage section can be tailored to any need, and the company says that users are only limited by their imagination for what this set can really be used for.

The product is well suited as a gift for any man or woman who needs a new storage space for their beauty stuffs, toiletries, and more. Many professional beauticians also use this set. Shipped from Amazon in a 3.6-pound package, the Cosmetic Organizer and Makeup Storage is officially available on Amazon at $36.99 for the complete organizer, with free shipping on all orders greater $49.00.

On Amazon.com, shoppers can now enjoy One Click Ordering, a secure shopping cart, and verified purchaser reviews.
