JMS Air Conditioning and Heating, an HVAC services company in Van Nuys, CA, has engaged in an aggressive online marketing campaign together with their partner, Local Visibility Consultants. As part of this campaign, they have released a new YouTube video that shows a customer review of their services for heating and air conditioning systems, like replacement of thermostats. The video can be viewed at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4jZpLdGwjiY>.

Alex Weiss from Local Visibility Consultants says: "We have been working together with JMS Air Conditioning to give them greater online visibility. To do this, we have helped them build a comprehensive website and social media campaign. Additionally, we have now started their video marketing campaign, with the first YouTube video having been launched. It's good to see that our campaign is working, and that the company is already noticing a significant increase in new clients."

The new video is a strong element of the company's reputation marketing campaign. The company has received a number of very positive reviews, and the new video highlights just one of them. This is an opportunity for JMS Air Conditioning to further spread its good name, and also to express gratitude towards their customers. They aim to highlight further reviews in the same manner.

"We work very hard to satisfy everyone," says a representative from JMS Air Conditioning. "Our business thrives on the happiness of our clients. So when someone writes us to tell us we did a great job, we love to show our appreciation by sharing the review."

In the review, Daniel H. states: "This is the best AC/Heating company in the LA area - hands down. They are on time, tell it like it is (good or bad news) and are extremely professional. Our technician, Marco, was a genius. He helped fix a big AC problem. I used 2 other companies before JMS and there was no comparison."

JMS Air Conditioning and Heating looks forward to receiving more reviews and creating further videos to highlight these. Those who have worked with the air conditioning company continue to be very pleased about the services that they have received to help fix their HVAC systems.

JMS Air Conditioning and Heating is located at 7640 Burnet Avenue Van Nuys, CA 91405.
